9 CZECHS KILLED IN ANTI-NAZI RIOTS

BERLIN, Nov. 17 (AP)—A Prague dispatch to DNB, official German news agency, today said that nine persons had been shot to death and a large number arrested in connection with student disturbances there.

NAZIS' HOLLAND INVASION DELAYED

By KENNETH T. DOWNS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Nov. 17—An assertion that German plans to invade Holland last week-end were "mysteriously cancelled" came today from the lips of an American observer who has just arrived in Paris from Germany by way of a neutral country.

"The Germans," he said, "were all set to invade Holland last week-end. There is absolutely no question of it. The plan was suddenly cancelled."

"I rode on a train from Berlin to Frankfurt Friday. That train, like all others, was jammed with troops hastily recalled from leaves of absence."

"The train was supposed to be a through express, but it stopped at all towns, picking up handfuls of troops even long after the train was packed."

"When I ribbed the conductor over the lack of Germany's famed efficiency as demonstrated by such crowding, he replied: 'On the contrary, this shows our efficiency—this is an emergency.'"

"The German troops were extremely cocky and full of talk about the coming attack against Holland."

"This time," they said, "we will go for them and we'll get them properly."

"At Frankfurt the troops were routed to the north. I would have bet my life that the offensive would have been started by Sunday. I am sure that was the original plan."

"I found the morale of the Germans surprisingly high in Berlin and elsewhere and saw no food shortage. I don't know how they will stand up when they receive a good shock, but at present they look as if they were ready for a long war."

Dr. Schuschnigg, Gestapo Prisoner, Resigned to Death

LONDON, Nov. 17 (INS)—The first message to the outside world from Dr. Kurt von Schuschnigg, former Austrian chancellor and now a prisoner of the German Gestapo, was brought to London by Dr. T. Vernon, former professor of history in the Vienna State University—the only outsider to see the Austrian leader since his imprisonment 19 months ago.

Dr. Vernon, who stated that Schuschnigg is being held under constant guard in a ten by nine-foot room under the eaves of the hotel Metropole, Vienna, gave the chancellor's message to the outside world as follows:

"When Chancellor Dollfuss was assassinated I stepped into the breach and did my duty by Austria."

"They shall not change me."

NAZI RAID ON BRITISH MIDLANDS

LONDON, Nov. 17—For the first time since the war began, German airplanes invaded the densely populated Lancashire area of England today, causing anti-aircraft guns to open fire.

The flights over the English midlands apparently were part of a series of sweeping reconnaissance by German planes which took in an area of more than 1200 miles.

Air raid alarms sounded at York, Manchester and Lille, France, while one German reconnaissance plane flew down the Rhine valley of France.

At about the same time, a German plane flew over the Shetland Islands, north of Scotland.

British fighters and anti-aircraft cannon drove off one enemy airplane near Manchester and Merseyside, while the appearance of a German Heinkel reconnaissance craft caused the air raid signals to sound in 13 towns in southern Lancashire, Cheshire and South Wales.

Manchester lies approximately 400 miles due west by air line from Emden, the probable base of the German reconnaissance planes.

The flight to Manchester represented a round trip of almost 1000 miles.

(Across the river Mersey from Lancashire, in Cheshire but virtually a part of Liverpool, is Birkenhead, great shipping center with docks and shipyards.)

The press association said that shortly after the all-clear signal was given in one town three British pursuit planes sped after the unidentified craft.

The dispatch said that Prague academies and universities had been ordered closed for three years.

DNB said these extraordinary measures were taken after students, who were described as "foll-

Dr. Eduard Benes was the last president of independent Czechoslovakia.

(International News Service dispatches from Berlin said that nine leaders of an anti-Nazi "sabotage" movement in the German protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia had been summarily executed by shooting, according to an official announcement from Prague.)

Hittler Troops Seize 1200 Czech Students

PRAGUE, Nov. 17 (AP)—Czech high schools and the Karlov University Technical Institute were occupied early this morning by German Schutzstaffel (SS) detachments and about 1200 students, boys and girls, were hauled away in buses.

Reasons for this action by Adolf Hitler's Blackshirt elite guard were vague. Shots were heard at Masaryk College, but apparently no one was injured.

On Wednesday, about 2000 Czech students demonstrated against the Bohemia-Moravia protectorate government set up by Germany in the dissolution of Czechoslovakia.

Sixteen of the throng were reported to have been arrested that day. The large body of students attempted to escort the coffin of a fellow student who died of injuries Oct. 28.

Allies Affirm War Measures

LONDON, Nov. 17 (INS)—The allied supreme war council met in London today with French Premier Edouard Daladier in attendance after an airplane flight from Paris. The council reviewed the military situation with a view to possible further developments. There was complete agreement in all aspects, it was stated, military, economically and materially.

was allowed to leave Vienna a week after the war broke out, asserted:

STATE IS PITIFUL

"I saw Dr. Schuschnigg only once. That was what he said. When he states, poor man, that he is unchanged, I know the people of Austria will believe him in spite of all Nazi propaganda."

"The people of Vienna, when they mention his name, call him 'Schuschnigg the incorruptible.'"

"His state is pitiful. Apart from his wife, who is sworn to secrecy, I have been the only visitor allowed to see him since the Nazis imprisoned him."

"Once past the guards and the loud speaker which blares gramophone records of Hitler's speeches to the prisoner day and night, one finds himself in a tiny chamber. The chancellor, the Gestapo men mockingly call it."

"There sunk deep in despondency is a white-haired man whom I hardly recognized at first as the former sprightly statesman."

RESIGNED TO DEATH

"Schuschnigg told me he has no appetite. He is living on an unhealthy diet of coffee and mashed potatoes. He does not expect to leave his room alive unless the Nazis bring him to trial as they have often threatened to do."

"I have taught myself English here," he told me. "I had the insane idea once that the Nazis might release me, and then I would have gone with my family to America. It was only a dream."

"Schuschnigg is already a dying man. It is his hell on earth to be condemned to listen to the Fuehrer's voice thundering Nazi speeches and doctrines on the Gestapo gramophone."

Cape Man, Girl Die In Love Suicide Pact

PLYMOUTH, Nov. 17.—As a portable phonograph sounded the mournful strains of a cello solo, Cecil E. Chambers, Barnstable father of three small children, and a pretty brunette Maine girl of 23 inhaled the poison fumes of monoxide gas and greeted death in each other's arms.

Their bodies were found today in an automobile registered in his brother's name. The car was on a lonely woodland lane in the Manomet section near White Horse beach.

Slumped on the rear seat was the body of Florence McQuade, 23, of Ft. Fairfield, Me., in the arms of her married escort.

His arm was about her neck and she was cuddled close in the embrace of death.

READ ABOUT MURDER

On the marriage ring finger of her left hand the girl wore a signet ring bearing the letter "F." She wore a light sweater and dress. Her coat was wrapped about her shoulders. Her head was slumped towards his shoulder. Her knees were huddled close to her body as she lay in his embrace. Her shoes were on the front seat.

Chambers was clad in a brown suit and light sweater. In his pockets police found 28 cents and the papers which led to his identification.

On the floor of the car lay a magazine opened to a page which featured an illustrated murder story. A picture of a girl with a gun in her hand was the illustration.

The plot of the story centered around a couple, madly in love, who could not marry because of family objections.

FOUND BY HUNTER

The phonograph had run down and it was evident from needle scratches on the record that the couple had died before the sad strains ceased.

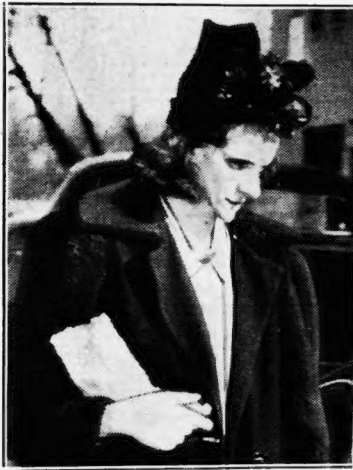

Howard Hall, local sportsman who was walking through the woods in search of game, discovered the death car. He saw a piece of garden hose leading from the exhaust to the right front window and investigated.

Heavy hunting socks had been stuffed along the edge of the window where the hose prevented its complete closing.

In the back of the car police

Haggard with mounting woes, Mrs. Evelyn Boxill Brown, 33, goes to Waltham court to plead guilty to abandoning her third baby in an auto. Despite her pleas for freedom, she was sentenced to Sherborn . . . when Police Chief Asa McKenna declared she has become mother of two children since her divorce in 1932.

Mother of 3 Jailed For Deserting Baby

Despite her tearful plea for freedom, Mrs. Evelyn Boxill Brown, 33, received an indeterminate sentence to Sherborn reformatory today, after she had pleaded guilty in Waltham court to a charge of abandoning her infant boy in a chilly automobile Feb. 3.

Mrs. Brown was joined by her mother, with whom she lives in West Acton, in a plea to Judge Frederic A. Crafts to allow her liberty.

Police Chief Asa McKenna asked for the reformatory sentence, however, pointing out that the woman has become the mother of two children since her divorce in 1932.

The abandoned child, Mrs. Brown stated on the witness stand, was born last Jan. 20 in the Ayer Community Hospital.

After his birth, she told Judge Crafts, she went first to a hospital in Fitchburg, then to Waltham. There, she declared, she tramped about town for hours in the cold, then left the child in a parked automobile, fearing she would be unable to support all of her three children.

The owner of the car parked it in his garage and locked the doors, failing to notice the infant slumbering in the rear seat. Next morning a tiny wail brought attention, and the motorist found the baby, one hand frost-bitten because it had worked out from under its protecting blanket.

Little "Buddy," as he was called, was placed in a foster home, and identity of his mother was not disclosed until Mrs. Brown applied for welfare aid.

In the application, she stated she had two children, but an alert welfare official remembered birth of the third child, and police took up the case.

THIRD DOWD CASE INDICTMENT; LINK WOMAN, 'BAGMAN'

The Suffolk County grand jury today indicted Frank C. "Chickie" Dolan, Walden st., Jamaica Plain, contractor, on charges of having solicited money to insure the job of a deputy sheriff under former Sheriff John F. Dowd.

His indictment followed appearance before the grand jury of Deputy Sheriff John J. Casey of Brighton, Casey for years associated as secretary with the late Sheriff John A. Kelliher, told the district attorney that he had paid a total of $2500 to hold his job in the county.

Dolan was taken into custody at the office of Atty. Herbert F. Callahan.

He was arraigned before Judge Frederick A. Foulds and released in $2500 bail, which was provided by his mother, Mrs. Mary C. Dolan.

Atty. Callahan asked 10 days in which to study the indictment in order to make a plea. The request was granted.

This was the third indictment returned by the grand jury since it started investigation of Dowd's regime of 13 months as sheriff.

TWO WOMEN LINKED

While the jury continued its probe, Dist. Atty. William J. Foley's office was investigating activities of a woman employee of the county who is alleged to have participated in a deal by which a bagman received a large sum of money to procure a job for a man friend.

It is alleged that she arranged for the prospective employee to meet the bagman and that he paid over the money and is now employed in the county.

This was the first time a woman had been mentioned as having connection with bagmen who are alleged to have collected an amount estimated as high as $90,000 from job-holders and job seekers in the Dowd administration.

DIDN'T GIVE RECEIPT

A second woman entered the case late today as a surprise witness when she and a civilian employee at police headquarters went to the district attorney's office. Their identities were shielded. Her man companion told reporters:

"I have positive proof that I paid $100 so that a woman relative of mine could keep her job at the Charles St. Jail. I borrowed the money and paid it to a deputy sheriff when he came to my house."

"He told me somebody had to kick in a hundred bucks if she wanted to keep the job. She's still there."

He was indignant when he described the bagman's visit and said:

"He didn't even give me a receipt for the money."

Dist. Atty. Foley's probers were today hot on the trail of a reported cache in which $48,000 of the huge "slush fund" is hidden. In both New York and Boston the search is being conducted as the result of information given to Foley and his assistants.

Tobin, Jr., Mixes Up Dad's Schedule

The trouble with Mayor Tobin's home telephone and electric clocks was located today.

Seems a lot of people have been complaining that they got line busy signals when they called the mayor at home, and several times the mayor has been chagrined to arrive in what he thought was plenty of time for an engagement, only to find he was actually a half hour or so late.

But today it was all explained. Little Maurice Tobin, Jr., the mayor's youngest child, who will be two next Dec. 16, objects to telephone receivers on hooks.

So when he sees a receiver hung up he just unhooks it, and when he sees a clock plugged into a wall outlet he simply unplugs it.

CITY AFTER DOLAN CASH O'HARE HELD

The city of Boston and counsel for Edmund L. Dolan, jailed former city treasurer, today engaged in a race for $25,000 in a Chicago safety deposit box of the late Edward J. O'Hare, slain dog and race track promoter.

It was revealed by Chicago investigators of the O'Hare murder that the money had been found in two manila envelopes marked with the names "Marion J. Dolan" and "Kathleen E. Dolan."

DOLAN LAWYER BUSY

Dolan, who is serving two and a half years in the Charles at jail for contempt of court, has two sisters of the same names, who live on Jamaicaaway, Jamaica Plain.

Kathleen E. Dolan is a clerk in the board of elections offices while Marion keeps house for her.

Appearing in Chicago with the keys to the safe deposit box was Robert Robterson, former member of the Boston commission and attorney who defended Dolan at the time superior court ordered

Romeo Sends Juliet Love With Flowers

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (INS)—Unable to communicate with his hospitalized Juliet by telephone, Romeo George Lowther, 3d, resorted to the language of flowers today, attaching a message of love to a basket of 36 giant chrysanthemums which he sent her.

Eileen Herrick, the modern Juliet, will soon be out of the hospital and then, under a court order obtained against her parents by Lowther, they are to enjoy a normal courtship without parental interference.

"She is free to do anything in the world she wants to," Mrs. Herrick said today. "We will not make any more attempts to persuade her one way or the other. I think she knows that no matter what happens to her we love her and that, wherever she is or wherever she goes, she can always remember that we are here waiting for her and loving her."

"We will pass no judgments. We are with her no matter what she does."

Said Herrick, in agreement: "I am old-fashioned. Perhaps I have seemed harsh. But Eileen's future means ever, thing to me. I've only been trying to keep her from making a tragic mistake."

This final capitulation of the parents came just after a fifth person had gone on record with suggestions to the 20-year-old Eileen as to her problems of love and marriage.

NEW ADVISOR

This latest volunteer, Miss Helen Stedman, a close friend of about Eileen's age, said, after remarking that her father had told her she'd "get nothing but grief" for intervening:

"My advice to Eileen would be to get a job, stop being a little girl, support herself and make up her own mind. She's slim enough to be a model."

Miss Stedman, who in her fashionable blonde way is about as beautiful as is the dark and fetching Eileen, is a model in a little shop that charges big bills.

"She ought to get a job and stand on her own feet and make up her mind later on about marriage," continued the friend. "They are both so emotionally upset that I think they should wait a little while before deciding on the wedding day."

Eileen herself was silent in the hospital in which she had promised to spend 30 days before seeing Lowther, the haven to which she said she'd gone because it was more peaceful than home. She had made it pretty clear yesterday, however, that she wanted to marry Lowther soon.

PHONE CALLS

During the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Herrick conferred with the Judge in private for about 20 minutes and then went away without telling what it was about.

The reasonable presumption seemed to be, however, that they talked about the court order of yesterday. Lowther had understood that the 10-day waiting period agreed upon didn't bar him from calling Miss Herrick at the hospital by telephone and it was reported that, in answer to three such calls today, the only answer he received was that her room had no phone.

Herrick, upon arrival at the courthouse, said his impression had been that Lowther wasn't supposed to communicate with Eileen in any way. Whether that impression was confirmed or set aside by the Judge wasn't disclosed.

Teacher Gets War Zone Thrill

A former West Roxbury school teacher passed up passage on an American ship to return home aboard a British liner for the thrill of going through the war zone on the vessel of a belligerent nation, she revealed today.

"I'd do it again," declared Miss Mary Asenath of Grayfield ave., who landed in New York from the liner Lancastria, one of the ship's two American passengers.

"I'm glad I had the experience of travelling one a British ship in war time."

Miss Asenath had been visiting relatives in London since June, and two air raid alarms were sounded while she was there.

Woman in Rush For Santa's Job

Yesterday John E. Scott, State Employment Service manager, told newsmen he had tried in vain to find a suitable man for a $25-a-week Santa Claus job.

Today he had 61 applicants and more applications were flooding in.

Publication of Scott's plight also brought a telephoned inquiry from a woman with a husky voice who said she was mannish and had the Santa Claus figure.

An applicant from the Charlestown section of Boston said he looked "just like Santa Claus," and had "a pot belly, red nose and white walrus moustache."

An older man, his face scarred by tragedy, placed a small wedding ring on her left heart finger, another on the hand of his dead son. And Miss Ida Knapp, who was to be the bride tomorrow of Clayton Bennett, Jr., was linked to the youth in defiance of the eternal gulf separating mortal love and life everlasting.

Only last Saturday the young bridegroom-to-be was driving home with the marriage license and twin wedding rings with which he would seal his troth to Miss Knapp.

There was a screeching of brakes, the car overturned, and young Bennett died in the wreckage.

The body was brought home, and the Rev. James F. Quimby of the Colebrook Methodist Church arrived for the symbolic wedding ceremony.

Quietly the girl took her place at the coffin, the elder Bennett at her side. A brief prayer was intoned as the rings were placed on the two fingers. Then came funeral prayers and burial in the family plot.

Fr. Tonra Dies In Dorchester

The priest had just entered a house in Dorchester ave., and was climbing to the second floor when he collapsed. Police were called by Mrs. Lottia McArdle, whose home the priest was about to visit.

Father Tonra was a brother of James W. Tonra, chief of police in Brookline.

Councilwoman Guilty of Keeping Children From School

Before a crowded courtroom, Mrs. Mildred Gieson Harris, recently defeated for re-election to the city council, today pleaded guilty in Roxbury Court to a charge of failing to send her two children to school during the last campaign.

Admitting she might have been "too lenient," Mrs. Harris said she had been in the hospital as a result of an auto accident.

She said her son, Leonard, 12, will enter the College of the Sacred Heart, Sharon, next Monday, and her daughter, Ruth, 15, will attend St. Joseph's High School. An injury to the boy's foot and an ailing ear suffered by the girl had kept them from entering school on schedule, she said. She showed Judge Frankland W. L. Miles an acknowledgment of Leonard's entrance application at Sacred Heart, but when she began asserting she was the victim of "political persecution," the judge interposed. He then put the case over for a week.

SEVEN FLEE AS FIRE SWEEPS ROXBURY TENEMENT HOUSE

Seven persons were driven from their home as flames raced through a three-family wooden house at Station and Parker sts., Roxbury, today. Sparks from a burning rubbish fire at the Mission Hill housing project are believed to have caused the blaze which did $2000 damage.

Mrs. Helen Jackson, 28, barely had time to snatch her baby, Gwendolyn, 2, from its crib and get down the smoke-filled stairway.

Mrs. Leo Calapai, 65, was helped to safety by firemen. Several others had to fight their way through smoke.

Mrs. Mary Lambert, Mr. and Mrs. Teofil Ejusik, and several others living on the two top floors were affected by the smoke which caused occupants of nearby houses to leave.

2 WOMEN ASK KILLER BE FREED

Two New York women who formerly lived in Boston, today appealed to Governor Saltonstall to pardon John S. Tartar, who is serving life in Charlestown State Prison for the murder of his sweetheart, Miss Mary Mahan, of South Boston, whom he shot to death in the Blue Hills reservation.

The women are Mrs. Ida Ferrand and her daughter, Miss Mildred Ferrand. Both refused to reveal their New York street address to newspapermen, and State Commissioner of Corrections Arthur T. Lyman likewise refused to divulge it.

FLEAD WITH GOVERNOR

Governor Saltonstall revealed that mother and daughter had called earlier today at his home in Chestnut Hill to plead for the murderer and that he saw them both later in his office at the State House. He told them the matter of a pardon would have to take its regular course.

Commissioner Lyman told a Boston Evening American reporter he would not recommend a pardon for Tartar and had so informed the women. He had a long talk with them in his office.

Lyman explained the mother had formerly worked in Tartar's brothers' restaurant in the South End, and that both women were interested in having Tartar pardoned solely on the ground of friendship.

BACK IN PRISON

Tartar was recently returned to State Prison after violating his parole by leaving Massachusetts without permission. He was arrested near Park st, as he was about to board a bus for New York.

The special commission investigating the "pardon racket" in Massachusetts is seeking to determine where he obtained $500 in his possession at the time.

The conditions surrounding his pardoning, after he had served nine years of his life sentence, are also being investigated. The commission has been informed money was paid to obtain his release.

Dever Bans All Gale Payment

Atty.-Gen. Paul A. Dever asserted today that all payments on contracts for hurricane repairs on state armories must be held up until the court has ruled on their validity.

His opinion was given in response to an inquiry by Adjt.-Gen. Edgar C. Erickson whether payments could be made on those contracts which were "fair and reasonable."

The payments were stopped several months ago when the attorney general charged prices in some of the contracts were "exorbitant."

The question of validity of the contracts arose after Dever disclosed they were signed by the quartermaster-general, instead of the then adjutant-general, to whose department the appropriation for repair work was made.

Erickson, in asking whether he could pay $10,175 to Henry C. Shells, said that a subsequent investigation had disclosed this contract "fair and reasonable." Shells is one of several contractors who have brought suit to collect for their work.

Only 12 Cities Raise Tax Rate

Governor Saltonstall announced today that "only 12 cities" had increased their real estate tax rates this year—"far fewer" than in any year since 1935—while 25 had "substantially" reduced their rates.

The Governor, in a statement, asserted he was confident that the "inspired outcry" against his administration's tax program would "subside now that the people become aware to what extent we have lightened their burden."

Plan Wipes Out New Haven Stock

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (INS)—Examiner Harvey H. Wilkinson today submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission for approval a sweeping plan for reorganizing the New Haven Railroad which drastically reduces funded indebtedness and wipes out both the preferred and common stock issues.

Under the plan as recommended, capitalization will be reduced from $475,871,843 as of Oct. 23, 1935—date of filing petition for reorganization—to $365,000,000 and fixed charges and guarantees from $20,329,520 paid or accrued in 1935 to

The equities of the holders of both the common and preferred stocks are found to have no value, and no provision is made for the stockholders in the plan.

PLAN BOND PAYMENTS

Equipment obligations will remain undisturbed. New York and New England—Boston Terminal first mortgage bonds and Dutchess County railroad first mortgage bonds will be paid off in cash.

The New York, Providence & Boston general mortgage bonds, Naugatuck first mortgage bonds, Harlem River & Port Chester Railroad first mortgage bonds, and Providence Terminal first mortgage bonds will remain undisturbed, and accrued and unpaid interest paid in cash, except that accrued and unpaid interest due on Harlem River & Port Chester bonds would be paid in new fixed interest bonds.

The Wilkinson report further recommends that the plan of the Old Colony Railroad, secondary debtor, under which the Old Colony would transfer its so-called western and Cape group of properties to the New Haven, and abandon the operations, both freight and passenger services on its so-called Boston group of properties by Jan. 1, 1941, be not approved at this time by the commission, and that, in view of the existing unfavorable earning position of the Old Colony that no plan for its reorganization be approved at this time.

The secured notes held by the Railroad Credit Corporation and the RFC will be exchanged for new collateral trust notes for 100 per cent of the remaining balances of the notes. Banks holding secured notes will receive in exchange for the principal thereof and accrued interest thereon reorganization securities of various classes.

Plans of the Providence, Warren & Bristol R. R. and the Hartford & Connecticut Western, secondary debtors, under which these roads would be reorganized, in connection with, or as a part of, the reorganization of the New Haven system, and their properties and assets transferred to the New Haven, are recommended for approval. Recommendation for the acquisition of the properties and assets of the Boston & Providence R. R. by the New Haven also is made.

FINANCES BLAMED IN MAINE TRAGEDY

SCARBORO, Me., Nov. 17.—A penciled scrawl in which he gave a rambling account of financial troubles today bared the motive for the slaying by William A. Rowe, 60, of his wife and two sons before he committed suicide in "Saug Harbor," their roadside inn here.

The note was revealed as authorities arranged with relatives for the four funerals and Dr. William R. Needelman, medical examiner, listed the case as "triple murder and suicide."

Funeral services will be held at the Bethlehem, N. H., Methodist Church Sunday afternoon.

Dr. Needelman said he believed Rowe, depressed by ill health and the pressure of his financial burden, shot his wife, Ethel, 55; their sons, Arthur, 14, and Claire, 13, in an oil shed behind their inn, set fire to the shed and then turned the revolver upon himself.

"I wish there was some other way," Rowe's note said in part, "but I can't find it. If I didn't love them so, I could abandon them, but I can't have them face it alone."

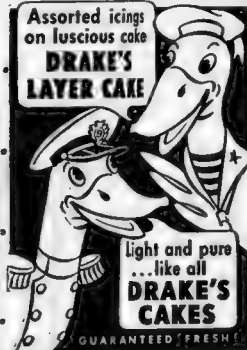

Then came what appeared to be references to his financial troubles and the responsible job in a New York bank he had held for ten years.

"I was warned a long time ago they would get rid of me," the note continued, "and work it out as soon as they could accomplish it themselves. I know they will come out of it with clean shirts; they can't afford to do otherwise. If it took them 12 years to find out I was incompetent, something must be wrong with them."

"It means the annihilation of an American family."

5 Trawlers Get French Sailors

Twenty-seven French merchant marine sailors arrived in Boston today for duty in connection with the sale of five fishing trawlers to the French line.

The trawlers, formerly owned by the Portland Trawling Co., a subsidiary of the Atlantic Coast Fisheries, will be converted into mine-sweepers.

At present the trawlers are undergoing repairs in an East Boston drydock. When repairs are completed the ships will leave Boston for an un-announced destination.

The vessels are the Loon, Brant, Fenian, Plover and Coe.

The crew members were recruited from French vessels tied up in New York.

Thankful Over 2 Thanksgivings

SOMERSWORTH, N. H., Nov. 17 (AP).—Somersworth's school children were thankful to both President Roosevelt and Governor Murphy today for not agreeing on the celebration of Thanksgiving Day this year.

DEWEY HITS KUHN DEFENSE

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (INS)—Counsel for Fritz Kuhn gained no ground in defense of the German-American Bund head against forgery and larceny charges today either through Dist. Atty. Thomas E. Dewey, Commissioner of investigation William P. Herlands or more sympathetic witnesses.

Still chasing the will-o-the-wisp of political pressure in the hope of establishing that the case against Kuhn is persecution rather than prosecution, the defense planned to call Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia and Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine, both of whom had a hand in launching the state's case.

DEWEY DEFENSE 'DUD'

Dewey's appearance was a "dud" for the defense which called him. It established that Herlands made the preliminary investigation of the Bund on orders of LaGuardia and that Dewey never personally entered the case either in its preliminary or present stages.

Dewey while denying animus against Kuhn admitted that he has no use for the Bund but said of his feelings "that I should be removed from office if they interfered with the conduct of my duties."

Peter Sabbatino, attorney for Kuhn, had even worse luck with Herlands. He told the court that he was using Herlands to show that "unseen forces" were active in attempting to discredit Kuhn.

His conduct led to a wordy exchange with the court and Sabbatino went so far as to accuse the court of "attempting to intimidate the defense counsel."

JUDGE IS ANGERED

Judge James G. Wallace, his eyes snapping, leaned forward.

"That remark was contemptuous," the court noted, "and I will take action on it at the proper time."

The defense fell down completely in its attempt to read a political connotation into the handling of the Kuhn case by Dewey's office.

Sabbatino introduced the political angle by referring to Dewey's campaign for Governor, when he was defeated by Herbert H. Lehman, the Democratic incumbent.

"Do you recall last year during your campaign for Governor you specifically attacked the German-American Bund in a speech at Riverhead, L. I.?" Sabbatino asked.

Dewey recalled that he had referred to the Bund but his best recollection was that he had congratulated the local prosecuting attorney for convicting six Bund followers in a civil rights case.

The district attorney denied he personally had instituted the present proceedings against Kuhn and Sabbatino cleared up that point himself by calling for two letters which Dewey carried to court—one from Mayor LaGuardia to himself, and the other, his reply.

General Motors Fined $20,000

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 17 (AP)—Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley imposed fines of $5000 each today on General Motors Corporation and three affiliates convicted last night by a jury of violating the Sherman antitrust law.

Prior to imposing the fines, the judge overruled motions for a new trial and arrest of judgment.

The three affiliates convicted were General Motors Sales Corporation, General Motors Acceptance Corporation and General Motors Acceptance Corporation of Indiana.

UNITY FREEMAN-MITFORD
Hitler's British Friend

Calls British Beauty 'Fool Over Hitler'

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (INS)—"I told Unity she was making a fool of herself over Hitler—but she didn't agree with me."

So said Stanley Rickardson, English poet and lecturer, upon his arrival today on the Cunard liner Lancastria from Southampton with 60 passengers.

He was discussing Unity Valkyrie Freeman-Mitford, 25-year-old daughter of Britain's Lord Rededale, who up to a comparatively short time ago was a frequent companion of 50-year-old Adolf Hitler, German Reichsfuehrer.

IN LOVE WITH HITLER

Unity, forsaken by many of her friends, is now in Munich, Germany, undergoing treatment "for asphyxiation or poisoning," reportedly self-administered because of despondency.

She has not been seeing Hitler since war broke out between her country and Germany.

Rickardson said he had a long chat with Unity in a hotel dining room in Bayreuth, Germany, during the Wagnerian festival last July, and that Hitler himself was sitting only two tables away.

At the table with he and Unity, Rickardson said, was a Capt. Bruckner, head of Hitler's personal bodyguard.

"I politely tried to tell her she was making an international ass out of herself, but she couldn't see it my way," related Rickardson.

"She was crazy in love with Hitler, calling him her wonderful friend. She thought Hitler did all the things Christ set out to do and that the Germans are a superior race."

BEAUTIFUL BLONDE

He described Unity as a "very dignified" woman, blonde, beautiful and well-dressed. He said she did not give him the idea that she wanted to become Hitler's wife, but she made no secret of her devotion and admiration for the ruler of Germany.

Capone's Condition Still Doctor's Secret

BALTIMORE, Nov. 17 (AP)—The extent of Al Capone's brain affliction remained a medical secret today after his physician issued the first formal statement in the case, noting only that the former Chicago gangster "is ill and is in need of hospital care."

Dr. Joseph E. Moore, attending Capone at Union Memorial Hospital, turned aside all questions regarding Capone's condition and the likelihood of his response to treatment.

The statement, issued over the names of Dr. Moore and Dr. Clyde D. Frost, Union Memorial director, said:

"Public interest is such as to make it very difficult for him to receive the treatment he needs. We ask co-operation in this situation to avoid serious injury to the patient's condition and grave disturbance to his family."

Outside the one-time Chicago gang czar's room at a male orderly and a nurse. In or near the hospital were three federal agents, assigned by Attorney General Murphy to keep the fallen vice emperor under surveillance because, Murphy said, "certain things have come to our attention."

Whether the agents were to guard Capone from himself or from possible gangland reprisal was not made clear.

Police Commissioner Robert E. Stanton said: "No city police are on duty in the hospital and no requests have been made for them. Only the regular patrolman, who covers a beat of four blocks, is in the vicinity."

The gangster chief came here secretly yesterday from the Federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa. He was suffering, from paralytic softening of the brain—but it was learned that, while his condition was serious, he was in no immediate danger.

2 Escape Death In Malden Blast

Two men narrowly escaped death or serious injury today when a copper refining furnace exploded in the Richards & Co. plant, Commercial st., Malden, shooting hot streams of molten copper over the floor, and ripping out one end of the building.

Daniel Spinoza and Joseph Capadanno, both of Somerville, who were tending the furnace, were hurled to the floor by the explosion, but escaped before the hot fluid metal reached them. Damage was estimated at about $1500.

The plant was used to manufacture explosives during the World War.

Great Dane Menace Faces 'Execution'

A huge Great Dane dog, which has frightened nurses and patients at Newton Hospital for three weeks and eluded capture by police, will be shot on sight, authorities said today.

Newton policemen were given orders to shoot to kill after Mrs. Eva Graves, 29, a nurse, was knocked to the ground and her clothing ripped by the dog, which weighs about 200 pounds.

F.D. to Delay Naming New U. S. Justice

By GEORGE DURNO

International News Service Staff Correspondent
HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 17—President Roosevelt will withhold appointment of a Supreme Court justice to succeed the late Justice Pierce Butler until the January session of Congress, he indicated today shortly after arriving here.

Only development of an emergency in the high court docket would bring about an earlier appointment, he hinted.

At the moment President Roosevelt said he was giving no thought to choosing his fifth Supreme Court appointee—a nomination which will give the New Deal control of the high tribunal.

On the political theory that a midwesterner and a Catholic must be appointed to the vacancy, sideliners were almost unanimous in guessing the President would elevate Attorney-General Frank Murphy to the high bench.

General decision on the part of Washington political reporters that Murphy would step up was based on the fact the late Justice Butler came from Minnesota and was a Catholic.

Murphy as former Michigan governor and a Catholic, was held the logical choice.

Fitting the same prescription is Associate Justice Harold M. Stephens, of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, who was appointed from Utah.

One name not to be overlooked was that of U. S. Court of Appeals Justice Wiley B. Rutledge, former dean of the University of Iowa law school.

Regardless of religion, the President had the word of several outstanding Senators that the appointment should go West. Comments accompanying his return here ran as follows:

Sen. William E. Borah (R.) of Idaho: "I'd like to see a western man on the court, but candidly it's the man and not the geographical location that counts on the bench."

Justice Butler Paid Last Capital Tribute

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Supreme Court and administrative officials paid final tribute today to Justice Butler before the body of the 73-year-old associate justice was started toward St. Paul, Minn., for burial.

Two retired justices also attended the solemn high requiem mass at St. Matthew's Cathedral, where the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward L. Buckley officiated.

Monday morning another mass will be sung at St. Luke's Church in St. Paul. Justices McReynolds, Stone and Roberts will accompany the body to Minnesota.

First to arrive for the St. Matthew's mass was Justice Frankfurter. There followed Chief Justice and Mrs. Hughes, Justice and Mrs. Roberts, Justice Willis Van Devanter, retired, Justice Douglas, Justice and Mrs. Reed, Justice Sutherland, retired, Justice and Mrs. Black, Justice and Mrs. Stone and Justice McReynolds. Justice Brandeis, retired, who seldom leaves his apartment, did not attend.

Others at the mass were Atty.-Gen. Murphy, Postmaster-General Farley, Solicitor-General Robert H. Jackson, Charles Warren, well-known Supreme Court historian; Frank Hogan, former president of the American Bar Ass'n, and Mrs. William Howard Taft, widow of the former chief justice.

The active and retired members of the tribunal were honorary pallbearers, while the heavy black coffin was borne by eight members of the police staff of the Supreme Court.

DIES SEES DRIVE ON ALL REDS

CHICAGO, Nov. 17 (AP)—Congressman Martin Dies, chairman of the congressional committee investigating un-Americanism, predicted today that "there will be hundreds of indictments—and convictions—of persons who have violated the laws of this country in spreading subversive propaganda."

The Texas congressman made this statement upon his arrival to resume, after a lapse of several weeks, an investigation of Communist, Fascist and Nazi activities in Chicago.

Dies said the Department of Justice was working on indictments based on evidence produced in its own investigations and by the Dies committee in regard to persons who have violated laws in carrying on subversive activities.

He termed the West coast area the "worst spot" in the nation, no bad that his committee, lacking sufficient funds, had to give up hopes to uncover adequately all subversive activities in that section.

Indict Browder Again In Passport Probe

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party in the United States, was indicted for the second time by a federal grand jury today for allegedly having made false statements to procure passports and for using these passports.

The new indictment charged that Browder used the name of "Albert Henry Richards" on one occasion.

Browder is free under $7500 bail on the first indictment.

Relief Rolls Show Drop in October

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Social Security Board said today that reports from 102 urban areas showed a decrease of less than 1 per cent in general relief cases in October, but an increase in the amount of obligations of 4 per cent over September.

Hitler's 'No' Waits Any F. D. Peace Bid

BERLIN, Nov. 17 (AP)—Authorized sources said today any general mediation offer by President Roosevelt at this time would be "uninteresting" so far as Germany is concerned.

France's injection of Austrian restitution into the issue at stake in the European conflict, these sources declared, shows conclusively the allies regard all peace talks as futile.

However, should President Roosevelt ask both sides to discuss war aims to him with a view to finding some common basis for mediation, Germany would be most likely to respond, these sources intimated.

(The President has indicated no intention of taking either step—offering "general mediation" or asking the belligerents to outline their war aims to him.)

(France, in her reply last Sunday to the Belgian-Netherlands mediation offer, demanded as a precondition that Germany repair "injustices which force has imposed on Austria, Czechoslovakia and Poland.") Great Britain put it up to Germany to assure an end of "aggression.")

WEST FRONT QUIET

German guns will speak in an unmistakable manner in ensuing weeks, it was hinted.

The western front was quiet today, however. A communique from the army high command said:

"Quiet in the west, with minor local artillery annoyance fire; no noteworthy fighting activity."

An inspired announcement yesterday that Germany "must liberate Europe from the unbearable yoke of British rule or might" was seen as foreshadowing offensive rather than defensive war. It was the most specific statement of German war aims in several weeks.

The statement recalled a remark by a high-ranking Nazi to the press just before Germany started her invasion of Poland Sept. 1:

"If England meddles in our affairs with Poland, the price will be destruction of the British empire."

FINNS RETURN HOME AS TENSION IS EASED

HELSINKI, Nov. 17 (AP)—Finnish and foreign residents were returning to Helsinki today as tension noticeably relaxed for the first time in the five weeks of Finnish-Soviet Russian negotiations over territorial changes.

From the Finnish point of view, apparently, the suspended conferences were ended unless new Russian proposals created a basis for reopening them. Party leaders yesterday discussed the parleys in a meeting with the cabinet. A defense loan of 50,000,000 Finnish marks (about $9,300,000) meanwhile, was about 20 per cent over subscribed.

(In Moscow, the Soviet Russian press campaign to force Finland into territorial concessions was intensified yesterday.)

(The newspaper organ of light industry, in an attack charging Finnish leaders with playing a "dark, dirty and dangerous" game, declared the U. S. S. R. would defend its northwestern frontiers "regardless of the stand of the Finnish government.") A similar theme was voiced in several other newspapers.)

Soviet Press Hits At U. S. Policies

MOSCOW, Nov. 17 (AP)—Two Soviet publications chided the United States today, holding up to ridicule American policy in European affairs.

The Soviet Youth newspaper Komsomol Pravda published a cartoon showing Uncle Sam contentedly puffing a cigar, counting money bags surmounted by skulls and saying: "O Lord, let us have continuous war."

The Trud, organ of the trade unions, attacked American administration of the Philippines while, it said, the United States was "shedding crocodile tears over the fate of small states in Europe."

3 Nazi Spies Are Beheaded

BERLIN, Nov. 17 (AP)—Three spies, convicted of treason for disclosing military secrets to a foreign intelligence service, were beheaded today.

They were Ewald Lakota, 29, of Beuthen; Johan Sroka, 26, of Beuthen, and Robert Schimpf, 23, of Kehl. A fourth, whose name was not disclosed, was decapitated earlier. He was accused of having been an accomplice of Schimpf.

HITLER, GENERALS IN CLASH

LONDON, Nov. 17 (AP)—High British military authorities expressed "conviction" today that what they called Germany's "indecisive tactics" on the western front were the result of disagreement between Adolf Hitler and his general staff.

These authorities did not disclose what information they had to support this view but said they considered it bolstered because Germany had not organized direct hard blows against Britain and France which, they said, was the usual German plan.

(Hitler in his Oct. 6 Reichstag asked, "Why should this war in the west be fought?" and insisted he had no claims against France. German communiques have stressed the lack of activity in the west; Hitler and other German spokesmen, while declaring enmity for Britain, have continued to express the view that there should be no war between Germany and France.)

There were hints also of sharp retaliation against any bombardment of British cities.

Asked what British policy would be toward any bombing of open cities or any use of gas, one source referred questioners to international law and to provisions for retaliation where the law is violated.

115,000 Germans Quit Ukraine in 'Swap'

MOSCOW, Nov. 17 (AP)—Repatriation of about 115,000 Germans from the western Ukraine, recently Polish but now Russian territory, already has begun, informed sources said today.

These sources said nearly 1,000,000 persons would be withdrawn from the German part of Poland to Russia, including Ukrainians, Ruthenians, White Russians, Russian Jews and Communists.

Nazis Hold Goering Aides, London Hears

LONDON, Nov. 17 (INS)—Reuters (British) news agency reported today that the Paris radio broadcast a rumor to the effect that the arrest of a number of high German air force officers, some of them friends of Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, has been ordered by Heinrich Himmler, chief of the German secret police.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—More than 140,000 World War veterans or their eligible dependents are likely to miss getting their "bonus" money if they don't hurry—in which case the Treasury would save about $11,000,000.

Applications for veterans' adjusted compensation payments must be filed by Jan. 2, 1940.

BRITISH HUNT NAZI RAIDER

LONDON, Nov. 17 (INS)—A major naval hunt got under way today off the eastern coast of Africa for the German raider that sank the 706-ton British tanker Africa Shell in Portuguese territorial waters in Mozambique channel between Portuguese East Africa and storied Madagascar.

British naval units, reportedly supported by French warships, went swiftly into action to track down the raider threatening a vital link in the British empire's far-flung life line.

Widespread excitement was caused by reports that the vessel which sank the tiny tanker, owned by the Shell Company of East Africa, might have been the German pocket battleship Admiral Scheer.

In a dispatch from Cape Town, the London Evening News said, however, that reports the Africa Shell's assailant was a pocket battleship were authoritatively discounted.

The attacker was believed to be an armed German merchant vessel, according to this account.

The naval correspondent of the Manchester Guardian, reported that he understood the Admiral Scheer has been located in the Indian Ocean.

Importance attached to the possibility of a major German raider operating off eastern Africa was indicated by the reluctance of the British Admiralty on the subject and by a Cape Town dispatch to the London Daily Telegraph which said the entire South African aerial and coastal patrol was called out to search for the vessel that sank the tanker.

The Africa Shell's crew was permitted to land, according to reports from Cape Town, but her captain was taken prisoner by the Germans.

Canadians Fire On U. S. Steamer

SEATTLE, Nov. 17 (AP)—Pugé sound shipping circles were stirred today by the report of a veteran American skipper that a Canadian ship had fired across his steamer's bow when he failed to heed an order to halt promptly for inspection at Prince Rupert, B. C.

Capt. A. J. Borkland of the steamer North Coast said the warning shot was fired Sunday as his ship headed into Prince Rupert on a trip southward from Alaska.

Report Canada Buying U. S. Planes

OTTAWA, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Canadian war supply board was reported unofficially today to have placed huge orders for planes and other war equipment and supplies in the United States.

The board, however, withheld official information on any deals concluded. It acts as purchasing agent for the British supply board, charged with responsibility for buying war material—from toothpaste to torpedo boats.

Belgian Air Forces Fire at Nazi Plane

BRUSSELS, Nov. 17 (AP)—Belgian air defense forces reported they had fired today at a German airplane about 18,000 feet over Ghent. The plane was believed not to have been hit.

A British plane landed on Belgian soil yesterday, and the three members of its crew were interned.

Cites 'Pound of Tea' Speech in Radio War

To Name Chicago Archbishop Dec. 11

That "pound of tea" speech of 1937 in which Leland C. Bickford, managing editor of the Yankee Network News Service, allegedly characterized all Massachusetts State Legislators as grafters, was revived in federal court today.

The speech was made before a Worcester women's club, witness Lawrence J. Flynn told trial examiner George B. Porter.

Flynn is clerk of the Mayflower Broadcasting Corp., which is seeking to obtain a license to operate on the wavelength of Station WAAB.

This latter station has been under political fire since Bickford supported Mayor Tobin and blasted candidates Curley, Foley and Nichols in the 1937 mayoralty election.

TELLS OF FIST FIGHT

In the speech, according to Flynn, Bickford charged that "legislators on Beacon Hill can be bought for a pound of tea or $100."

Atty. Paul D. E. Spearman, representing WAAB, drew the admission from Flynn, former WAAB advertising agent, that the talk in question was not broadcast over WAAB or any affiliated station.

but Flynn countered with the statement that all Bickford's speeches were approved in advance by John Shepard, 3rd, owner of Stations WAAB and WNAC.

Bickford's speeches made enemies for the network, Flynn testified. He described a fist fight in the State House following the "pound of tea" speech, in which Bickford and a Mr. Baigalupo allegedly took part.

MAKES APOLOGY

"The assault at the State House came after he (Bickford) was requested by legislators to repeat the charge he made in the Worcester speech," Flynn testified.

"He was met by Mr. Baigalupo outside the House of Representatives door.

"As a result of Mr. Bickford's speeches he left many unpleasant tastes in everybody's mouth."

Flynn, in a preliminary testimony, said he expects to manage the proposed station.

In 1937, he said, he resigned from WAAB after a long conference with Shepard, after former Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield had "quit the station" in pique over allotment of time scheduled to him to former

Gov. James H. Curley.

Paul D. Spearman, counsel for Shepard, objected to "improper and unwarranted innuendo" when Flynn said that speeches to arouse racial prejudice, or unchecked news items, and attacks on public or private persons would be taboo in the proposed station.

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 17 (AP)

A successor to the late George Cardinal Mundelein as archbishop of Chicago probably will be named by Pope Pius, on December 11 at a secret ceremony announced today for that date.

Only bishops and archbishops are to be named at this ceremony, not cardinals.

Indict 'Chickie' Dolan In Dowd Cash Probe

erick T. Doyle was investigating the report that two prominent lawyers were involved in bagmen's activities in the mad hunt for jobs and county sinecures which followed Dowd's election as sheriff. If sufficient evidence is obtained it will be presented to the grand jury and Foley will ask indictments.

Three more county employees who are said to have paid $500 each to hold their county jobs have been found by the district attorney's investigators, Foley announced today. He added that the grand jury would require at least 10 more days in which to complete its inquiry.

REVEAL POKER GAME

It was learned today that two of the bagmen, a Roxbury bailiend and four others set in a seven-handed poker game each Friday night at the sheriff's home. How high the stakes were has not yet been determined, but it was learned that the game was a fast one.

Foley called to his office today 10 men, employed both at the jail and the courthouse. He was questioning them as to their dealings with graft collectors who allegedly threatened:

"No pay, no stay!" Charles A. Hussey, Warren st. Roxbury, public works department foreman, was arraigned before Judge Fosdick today and held in $2500 bonds.

He was arrested a few hours after the arrest of William J. Armstrong, courthouse engineer. Both men are charged with soliciting money from jobholders.

Armstrong is in jail lacking $25,000 bail in which he was ordered held when Asst. Dist. Atty. Doyle told Judge Fosdick he feared he might flee the jurisdiction of the court.

Meanwhile Sheriff Frederick R. Sullivan announced that he had deputized all the present deputies for a 60-day period. During that time they will carry on the routine duties of process serving while he studies the situation left to him by his predecessor.

From the jail and the courthouse Foley summoned the 10 employees to question them regarding dealings with graft money collectors.

Among those called were George Parker, custodian of the courthouse, and James McKeever and Michael Saunders, also employed there. From the jail were Michael McHegan, Roderick Chisholm, Jack Quene, William Berry, Daniel J. Carroll, John T. Glennon and Thomas Goode.

BAGMAN TO TALK

That he was now prepared to "tell all" was the word sent to Foley today by one of the alleged bagmen in the county collecting ring and he will be given an opportunity to tell the details of the "squeeze" on employees.

According to the information sent to the district attorney he is willing to confess collecting thousands of dollars but claims he was acting on orders from a superior.

Also to be questioned later is Deputy Sheriff Frank Pedonti, former secretary to Ex-Governor James M. Cully.

Pedonti was appointed to his post a few weeks before Dowd resigned under fire. He will be asked about details of his appointment.

Fox Reveals Sums

Paid to Dolan's Firm

Since last Jan. 1 Frank C. Dolan's contracting firm has received $10,662 for work at the courthouse, jail and for roping off streets and hanging flags in public squares on the various holidays. City Auditor Charles J. Fox announced today.

At the jail a total of $4840 was paid to Dolan for work done there. Among the items, according to Auditor Fox, was the construction of a sun room, $900, and rebuilding a wall around the sheriff's house, $445.

On the courthouse WPA project Dolan rented a truck and supplied a driver at $1 an hour for 871 hours and received a total of $3462 for work there.

The firm, F. C. Dolan & Sons, of which he is a member, received $3360 for holiday and race day work. It received $466 for roping off streets for the April 19 marathon.

In a breakdown of the $2360 charges, the city auditor revealed that it cost the city more to display flags in squares and parks on Benjamin Franklin's birthday, Jan. 17, than it did on the Fourth of July.

The city paid $103.80 for Franklin's birthday and $93.60 for Independence Day.

When the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company held its parade and drumhead election on the Common, Dolan's firm collected $181 for roping off the Common.

On the occasion of the death of Gen. Edward L. Logan, Dolan charged the city $103.50 for placing the flags on public buildings at half staff.

Death Parts Pair Only Hour

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 17 (AP)—Death parted Mr. and Mrs. Merrill E. Streeter for only one hour today. Street, 89, died in his sleep. When his wife, 87, learned of it, she told a daughter she no longer had a desire to live. She passed away shortly afterward.

A former city councillor and State Representative, Streeter conducted a blacksmith shop for many years.

CITY IN RACE FOR DOLAN CASH IN O'HARE BOX

Dolan to refund $171,578 to the city.

At the same time, Corp. Counsel Henry Parkman, Jr., retained the Chicago law firm of Ross and Bercham to attach the money, claiming that Dolan still owes the city $20,000 on which his bonding companies never made good.

Robertson said he was claiming to appear before the grand jury as the money for one John Walter, in whose name the box was listed.

FOR O'HARE'S FRIEND

Walter, he said, was a friend of O'Hare, who had no interest in the contents of the box, which was registered "in care of Edward J. O'Hare."

State's Atty. Thomas J. Courtney in Chicago subpoenaed Robertson to appear before the grand jury as the attorney sought to remove the money, but was prevented.

Courtney announced that he had opened the box in the presence of witnesses and counted the money which was contained in the two large envelopes bearing the inscriptions:

"Safe keeping—property of Martin J. Dolan and Kathleen E. Dolan."

The money was in cri p bills of denominations ranging from $100 to $1000, Courtney said.

BONDING FIRMS CLAIM

These developments came as Boston bonding companies, which had underwritten Dolan to the tune of $600,000 during his term of city treasurer, sought to establish ownership of the money, which came to light in the First National Bank in Chicago.

What pointed to the possibility that "Dolan" was the former Boston official who is now serving a two and a half year sentence in Charles st. jail, was a letter to O'Hare signed, "Eddie D." It was found among O'Hare's effects. Dolan was sentenced to jail for contempt of court. He also is charged with larceny of $250,000 during his term of office as city treasurer. The latter case is held in abeyance.

The contempt sentence was passed on Dolan, State Representative Robert E. Dinwiddie and Walter Quinn, after they allegedly attempted to bribe jurors in May, 1938.

The state superior court has ordered Dolan to repay the city the sum of $171,578. The city seized his yacht and other property in part satisfaction of a $20,000 liability which his bonding company, it is alleged, did not repay.

SPYING SCOUNDREL AT DAWN

—by—
PAUL WHELTON

IT was hardly a fit setting, the Ladies' Club in London's West End, for such serious conversation. Seemingly here should be light and frothy chatter, tinkling, gay laughter, little excited exclamations . . .

"No? And what did he say then?"

"Why, he said—I but I wouldn't want to have this go any further . . ."

Leaning across the desk, their heads almost touching!

The two women in the Ladies' Club were leaning across the desk now and the talk, somehow, had turned to spies.

It was a turn not entirely to the liking of the woman who was serving as desk clerk in the club. England had had her spy scares and now, in September of 1935, the British were becoming more and more spy conscious.

The woman to whom the clerk was then, frightened up on the other side of the desk—

"Why," she said, laughing, "for all you know, I might be a German spy."

"Yes," the clerk agreed in her new gravity.

"But if I were a spy, should I have references from the Danish Legation and such?"

"I'm sure I don't know," returned the clerk coldly.

Eva de Bournonville's eyebrows raised slightly at the tone, then she turned away from the desk and went up to her room.

Less than a month had the woman with the name that savored of a heroine in a Victorian novel been in England, but already she was doing a very excellent job of making nearly all who came in contact with her excretingly uncomfortable.

Not yet had the authorities heard of Eva de Bournonville, but they would very shortly—and when they did, they would cut her name down to where they could get hold of it. She would be "Eva the Swede," like it or not.

And she would hear herself sentenced to death as a spy, which undoubtedly would give her considerably more concern than the raising of her name.

It was only outwardly a jest when she made her comment to the clerk in the Ladies' Club, for Mile de Bournonville was, in truth, in the pay of Imperial Germany at the time of that conversation.

Lady by birth and a lady thereafter, so far as is known, she was in the category of spies who followed that risky profession for necessity rather than patriotic reasons.

AN excellent linguist she had been since the days of childhood, and she had acquired the art of disguise. And her past she had told very little of, but in various foreign cities, Paris, London, and Berlin, she had been a spy, and she was in Copenhagen, and out of a job and thus left a mere reception clerk, instead, than she might have been in a position where a German agent who had been long studying her advanced a proposition.

This was that she join the secret service of Imperial Germany, go to England and secure information regarding defenses, particularly anti-aircraft defenses. The German agent put it in a way but Eva dusted away the dust.

"You mean I'm to be a spy," she commented.

"Well—an agent."

Apparently Eva needed little persuasion, under whatever designation she chose to regard the assignment, for she arrived in England early in September, armed with a Swedish passport.

Her headquarters would be London, of course, inasmuch as anti-aircraft defenses were to be her forte.

Sometime in the years before the war she had met and become fairly well acquainted with a Scottish woman whose home was in the north of England, in Dumfrieshire.

Before she left Copenhagen for England, Eva mapped out a campaign for getting her information out of the British Isles, and as a preliminary step she wrote to the Scottish woman, stating that she intended visiting England for the sake of her health, and would be pleased to see her old friend.

That was a blind, for Eva had no intention of going to Scotland, no assignment having been given her in that section of the islands.

Once arrived in London, Eva took the next step in her plan and again wrote to Dumfrieshire, stating that she had arrived and hinting that she was rich in funds and that aid of her good friend in locating a light job in or near London might not be amiss.

The latter suggested that Eva might find employment in the Postal Censorship, and she asked that her friend recommend her to a few people in London who might help her.

Acting in good faith and without knowledge, of course, that Eva was anything except what she represented herself to be, the Scottish woman replied to Dumfrieshire at the cheap hotel in Bloomsbury where she had put up.

INCLUDED in the gracious reply were the names of some friends in Hackney Downs, a little suburban villa in London's northeast, and the Scottish woman invited Eva to call on them in the writer's name.

A few days later Eva paid a visit to the villa in Hackney Downs, but the people were out. Here was an excellent opportunity to establish herself, and Eva left her card, giving her address in care of the Swedish Legation, Pont St. W.

Such an address was calculated to allay any suspicion, if indeed any should exist when she presented herself as a stranger. Two days later Eva called at the legation and, sure enough, there was a letter for her from Hackney Downs—an invitation to call.

This was becoming too easy for Mile Eva de Bournonville, who had not yet become "Eva the Swede." She accepted this formal invitation, and was in even more good fortune. She was "received" as a companion and secretary of the woman of the house and for a time was treated as one of the family.

Now Eva could go to work. She had a job and a good one. Also she was still aiming at that position in postal censorship, of course, sending information to the address in London which she had been given would be made easy.

The head of the house where she was employed was only a commercial traveler, but he kept her up a bit of apparently innocuous gossip that would prove valuable, and besides he would be a good reference when she was called on her postal application.

Eva, however, made the mistake of being too inquisitive in the villa at Hackney Downs and soon she came to be not too cordially regarded. She tried every feminine wile in an attempt to pump information out of the embarrassed commercial traveler.

At times she was the shy, wide-eyed maiden who was helpless in the matter of this terrible war, and there was the nearest gun. I'd like to see it, but I'd never dare go near it!"

"No, I'm afraid you can't go and see it," the commercial traveler recalled later that he had told her, "Nobody is permitted to go near it."

At other times she was the serious-minded neutral who was keenly interested in England's winning the war, and who wished to be sure Britain had sufficient defenses.

She asked about the number of guns in use to fortify England. She wanted to know where they were situated, what was their calibre and what their range and elevation.

On one occasion, when taken with the family to Finsbury

THE SPRUNG TRAP—When British Intelligence officers suspected Eva (the Swede) de Bournonville of espionage, she was given erroneous information concerning an airplane with a revolving gun . . . which she told about in a letter to German agents. That trapped her.

Park, she exclaimed:

Where are the Zeppelin guns situated here?"

LATER the commercial traveler said he had no suspicion that his wife's companion was a German spy, but she made him uncomfortable, particularly in public places, and he was ever dreading to feel the grip of some official hand on his arm.

Finally, after Eva had displayed amazing zeal in attempting to learn the damage wrought in a Zeppelin raid, she was politely informed that her services were no longer required and she went to reside in a hotel in Upper Bedford place, W., in London.

Clearly the little home in Hackney Downs had been a waste of time, and perhaps Eva was a little impatient with herself for having squandered even those few weeks on that drab and stodgy family.

At any rate, her German chief was impatient and it is known that he informed her, a bit tartly, that information would have to come through a bit more satisfactorily if she was to continue receiving her 7 pounds, 10 shillings a week—slightly under $37.

Most persons probably would have been a little miffed over being shown, almost openly, that she was wanted no longer in a household, but Eva the Swede appears to have had what might be called a duck's back, off which the water of chagrin rolled with facility.

She had picked up certain information regarding London defenses but she was becoming uneasy about the letters she was sending to Sweden, with her information contained in invisible ink between the lines.

As a result of her doubt and her fear that the succession of letters might come under suspicion, she received a new name as that of the addressee.

The new recipient of her spy mail was a purporting Belgian friend, war prisoner in Germany. And who would think of censoring the mail being sent to a luckless chap who, perhaps, had been waiting in a Scotch prison camp for many months!

Egged on by her German superiors, however, Eva pointed out that the job in postal censorship—and as cordially as if she had never been fired out of her job she went back to the little commercial traveler and his wife in Hackney Downs.

This time it was to suggest—and, oh so sweetly—that they might recommend her for a position in postal censorship. The commercial traveler, flustered again in the presence of this pretty but inquisitive woman, found himself out on a limb with the suddenness of the suggestion.

His more practical wife, however, disposed of any further doubt Eva might have had as to how she stood in the suburban household. Madam Commercial Traveler arrived like the Coast Guard, in the nick of time.

"Oh, no," she said, "I don't think we could do that, Mademoiselle. You see, they are most particular and if anything went wrong we should get into serious trouble."

THERE is little evidence from her actions that Mile de Bournonville was in any way disturbed by this open rebuff, or that she had any fear the Hackney Downs people might be suspicious of her.

Perhaps she felt that she had a nice ace in the hole in the foundation she had laid for all this business.

Surprising as it may seem, she did have some sort of a connection with the Danish Legation. Money was transmitted to her through the Legation, as is often done with traveling foreigners of no particular address.

She received much of her mail at the Legation. There was certainly no reason to suspect the lady if she had been a bit more subtle about picking up, or attempting to pick up information that would be helpful to England's enemies.

What the Legation did not know, of course, was that money was being received there by her—mailed by Germany as her pay for acting as a German spy.

In fact, after her residence at the Ladies' Club in the West End, a brief residence in fact, she apparently ran short of money and borrowed 30 shillings from the woman desk clerk who later was to become weary of the guest's chatter about spies.

She had stayed at the hotel in Upper Bedford place only a short time, moving from there to lodgings in South Kensington. The Ladies' Club was her next stop, and then she went back to Upper Bedford place, but to a hotel frequented considerably by army officers on leave.

It was here that the leer of Fate was first directed upon her. In the very censorship office where she was attempting to secure a job, an unsigned letter, bearing a Bloomsbury postmark and addressed to Copenhagen, fell under some conscientious worker's eye and it was held out.

Tests brought out invisible writing regarding damage done in an air raid that week, and the writing which had been hidden said also that the sender had formed some "new contacts" and soon would be in a position to send some "real news."

Long tracing of the letter, through the stationery and other means, brought the Special Intelligence agents to the hotel in Upper Bedford place. Now, from time to time, other letters, in the same writing and on similar stationery—all addressed to Copenhagen—were taken from the mails.

AT the hotel, meanwhile, Mile de Bournonville was having a lovely time with all these nice officers around to entertain her, and frequently she induced the young subalterns to take her out for walks.

Inevitably, even if circuitously, the conversation turned to military matters, and if the young officers were flattered by her praises of their bravery in endeavoring to get to the front, who can blame them!

"It must be wonderful to be a man and be able to take part in the fighting," she would say. "Do you think your outfit will go over soon?"

What youngster could see any harm in telling this pretty admirer that there was a rumor the 15th Rifle were leaving in about two weeks?

"It must be so exciting at Wellington Barracks, but I hear it's so crowded. How many men are there now? And aren't they afraid that some old German plane might come over and drop bombs in a place like that? Have they got any anti-aircraft guns?"

And if some second lieutenant, not so callow as his fellows, might about her a glance of suspicion—how long could it live in

FRAMINGHAM WOMEN, seeking to enroll all the mothers of their community in the National Legion of Mothers of America, are an inspiring example for women throughout the State and country.

These women remember the World War, all the talk about America's keeping out, all the propaganda that eventually involved the nation in the European conflict.

They do not forget the triumphant departure of their brothers, fathers and uncles for duty "Over There."

Nor the sad home-coming—bodies in flag-draped coffins, shattered limbs, torn bodies, destroyed minds and gas-burned lungs!

They know that war fought in earnest today, with all the developments born of 21 years of preparation in laboratories and munitions factories, will be a hundred times worse for their sons.

Consequently, while there is yet opportunity, they are MAKING THEMSELVES HEARD and, through a truly representative organization, voicing the emphatically AMERICAN sentiments that will keep America out of Europe's war and Europe's war out of America.

AGED WADDY, Franklin Park Zoo's 74-year-old elephant, is the innocent cause of a controversy regarding animal longevity.

One side, noting the Boston pachyderm's infirmities, brands as a misconception the popular belief that elephants normally live longer than human beings.

The other side contends that civilization, confinement and too much ease have shortened the span of years that might have been Waddy's, had she escaped her captors in youth and known the freedom of the jungle.

If the disputing parties look to science to settle the argument they will look in vain. Eminent authorities also entertain widely differing opinions.

For instance, the Illinois Humane Society gives 60 years as the natural life for the elephant and says, "Existence is just as uncertain in the animal world, perhaps more so, than it is in the human world."

On the other hand, accredited data, collected by Carl W. Neumann and published in the Lincoln Library, establishes the fact that these huge quadrupeds may reach ages ranging from 150 to 200 years and presents the equally interesting information that the elder duck, giant tortoise, goose, parrot and raven may achieve the three-century mark.

"AUTOMOBILES SAVE JOBS," declares Public Works Commissioner John W. Beal.

Because revenue from increased registrations and the boosted gasoline tax is placing an additional $1,250,000 in the State treasury, the one hundred employees of Mr. Beal's department who were slated for dismissal are going to be retained.

Creating employment is one of the automobile's most important contributions to modern American life. Their manufacture gives work to more than 160,000 men and pays them wages totaling $245,000,000.

The making of motor vehicle parts and bodies provides wages exceeding $350,000,000 for 245,000 other persons.

These figures do not include the 260,000 men and women who are employed in the petroleum, rubber, metal and plating industries and who receive annually more than $500,000,000.

FAMOUS SIAMESE TWINS, Violet and Daisy Hilton of Holyoke, inspire an interesting question by their insistence that a variety actors' organization regard them as "one physical unit" and assess them a single initiation fee.

A similar puzzle baffled thousands many years ago, when Eng and Chang, "original Siamese Twins," first came to America from their native Siam.

But, despite the flesh that bound them to each other, Eng and Chang lived the lives of normal men. The two married. Eng had five children, Chang six.

In the end, however, Death decreed that they could not be considered wholly independent individuals. When Eng fell ill and died, Chang followed in less than an hour.

Surgery could not dissolve the union that Nature had established at the brothers' birth.

Human Side of News -1- By EDWIN C. HILL

IT SEEMED to this onlooker that there was a new note in this year's Armistice Day speeches. There was a harder and closer look at realities, more close in grappling with facts which are pertinent to the safety and well-being of the U. S. A. of today and tomorrow.

All in all, there was, I thought, a clearer perception of that which is real and actual and immediate in our unique experiment in self-government, as contrasted to that which is remote and romantic.

In our present mood of wholesome dislike of this war and our determination not to get into it, it would be easy for our cheerleaders to overdo the emotional fervor about our blessed isolation and give too little heed to our historic justification for deliberate and thoughtful withdrawal from the age-old battle-royal of Europe and points south and east.

SOME well-meaning citizens, invoking the high ideals of world citizenship, find in the word "isolation" only cynical and brutal selfishness.

I believe the same opprobrium rested on one Zeb Epperson, who refused to mix in the Breathitt County feuds in Kentucky and finally came through as the only solvent citizen for miles around.

But, if you don't like "isolation" and all that it implies, why not take a look at the advisability and possibility of quietly and thought-

CUBA'S CAPITOL

fully disengaging ourselves from the alternate tension and turmoil overseas?

Those who would deal us a hand in Europe, with deuces, kings, chancellors and everything else wild, quite properly put the issue on moral grounds. Without being too priggish about it, I think that's where the shine.

No nation in all the history of the world had a better report card when it comes to decent international behaviour. Just a few specifications: When the allied powers nipped China for $320,000,000 damages for the Boxer rebellion, we handed back to China our little cut of $12,000,000. China reciprocated by bankrolling her students in this country, with the refund.

Theodore Roosevelt put over several fast ones on Colombia in prying loose the Panama Canal Zone, but when we got around to it we voluntarily and without any pressure whatsoever, paid Colombia in full.

At the end of the war with Spain, all world precedent under the old ground rules would have entitled us to pounce Cuba and the Philippines and no back-talk from anybody. But we didn't.

WE NURSED Cuba through her fledgling years as a republic and rubbed out the Platt Amendment when the time came. We paid $20,000,000 for the Philippines, poured in countless other millions in developing a stable government in a savage wilderness, and we are trying to turn them loose if they can be safe from the prowling imperialisms which some of our citizens commend for our partnership.

All of which, by way of understatement, is our legitimate reply to Molotov's stupid crack about our grabbing the above from Spain. In the last world war we bankrolled the combatants for $11,000,000,000 and later counted our dead and wrote off our debt without claiming a foot of soil, a bale of raw materials, a league of trade routes, an open door or preferred tariff rating—traditional stakes in European shooting matches.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

LOGAN, W. Va., Nov. 17—The drive from Lancaster to York, Pa., yesterday afternoon was lovely and through rich farming country. Mr. Laucks had asked us to stay, and since that was impossible, we drove up to his place, and I had an opportunity to walk around the grounds.

From the terrace there is a most beautiful view of the Susquehanna river. Mr. William Adams Delano, who built the house, has given it the atmosphere of intimacy, which to me is the most charming thing about a French house.

As you come in, the wall around the courtyard seems to shut out the outer world. One stout and ageing Scottie accompanied his master around, and two young and vociferous Scotties were chained up near the stable. They wriggled and jumped in their efforts to get free and follow us, and, since I can never resist Scotties, I had to go and pat them.

WE GLIMPSED A Japanese garden, very charmingly laid out on a hillside, with a tiny waterfall dropping into a succession of pools. Off in the distance we had a glimpse of 2000 white turkeys covering a hillside, but I did not have time to see the dairy.

It must be most interesting to have a place of this kind which gives an opportunity for real business management and yet has great beauty. Mr. Laucks kept telling me how much he wanted the President to come to see it.

I know the President would enjoy it, but I fear this visit will have to wait until Washington days are over.

IN YORK we passed through some interesting old streets. I was much interested in a bit of history which I probably should have known, namely, that York was the seat of the first meeting of the Continental Congress, and that the first national Thanksgiving Day was proclaimed here by George Washington after the Battle of Saratoga.

No one seemed to know exactly what date this was. Perhaps that year had some of the difficulties that we are having this year.

Once at the hotel, we had a few minutes to unpack. Then came a press conference, consisting largely of high school students, and a short visit from the local representative of the NYA, who brought me some interesting pictures of their projects.

The sewing project makes costumes for various school activities and for poor children, a toy project reconditions toys of every kind and has reached thousands of children every Christmas. These are projects carried on by NYA and WPA all over the country, so there was no real loss in not having time to go out to visit them.

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Nov. 17—Leon Henderson, Securities and Exchange Commissioner, who attended the recent party at the Soviet Embassy, was informed by a magazine that, in covering the party, his would be the only picture they'd use . . . "Why single me out?" Henderson asked. "You took pictures of Mrs. John L. Lewis, Ed Smith and many others" . . . "But yours was the only picture which turned out all right," was the answer. "You were looking at the birdie just right" . . . "Yes, and I know the birdie's name," Henderson returned. "It was 'Smear'."

PUBLICITY—Barbara Hutton now is employing one of the foremost press agents in America to assure favorable treatment by the press here . . . Mrs. Hutton and her friend, Bob Sweeney, made one of their rare nightclub appearances Wednesday when they came to the St. Regis. Her publicist called the hotel management first to give specific instructions regarding publicity—"No pictures, at all, but any kind of fashions release is okay."

CHATTER—Up to last night the "deal" offered Lepke Buchalter was a five-year sentence if he'd talk and involve a labor leader . . . Mrs. Angier Biddle Duke, who rode in the Horse Show last week, will go to Doctors' Hospital this week for a minor operation . . . Mrs. Otto P. Kahn is in Cairo to be near her daughter and son-in-law, who is a major in the British Army . . . Senator Wagner's new annuity bill, front-paged this week, was part of the original social security bill which was killed in committee. Wagner decided to revive it . . . Henry Koster, director of the Deanna Durbin movies, was introduced to Deems Taylor . . . Koster confessed that the only people he knows in Hollywood are the musicians . . . Taylor, who will go to Hollywood to write the music for Walt Disney's next film, told him that the only people he knows in Hollywood are the actors . . . "Very well, then," Koster told Musician Taylor, "when you come to Hollywood I'll introduce you to the musicians" . . . "Agreed," Taylor told Movie Director Koster. "And then I'll introduce you to the movie actors."

SAFETY—David Niven, who bade farewell to America on Saturday, when he sailed for Europe on the Rex, telephoned from ship-to-shore Wednesday night . . . He phoned John Perona, owner of El Morocco, and assured him that, to date, everything was all right . . . "I told you there's nothing to worry about," Perona assured. "I know the captain of the Rex. I know a lot of ships' captains" . . . "That's fine," Niven told him, "but do you know any submarine captains?"

MRS. ANGIER BIDDLE DUKE

EXTRA EXCLUSIVE: Miss Lois Andrews might have been Mrs. Charles Barnet as you are reading this were it not for the Massachusetts five-day law regarding matrimony . . . The beautiful blonde who set Broadway on its ear when she punched her way to many Page Ones a few weeks ago at the Stork Club is at a Boston midtown hotel . . . She is visiting with her best girl friend, pretty Betty Allen . . . Both were of George White's "Scandals" when it played Boston, but after a violent disagreement with Producer White—which nearly set Mr. White on his ear as well as Broadway—Miss Andrews left the cast in New York, and Miss Allen's departure followed soon after.

STRANGELY ENOUGH—one of the Broadway columns carried an item yesterday which read, to wit: "Lois Andrews, the 'Scandals' girl, itemed as being the adored of Trommer, the larger millionaire, promised D. Breen, the clown hooper, she'd marry him on June 22" . . . Stately Lois must have been spoofing the "clown hooper" . . . Because after a breath-taking romance with Maestro Barnet, Miss Andrews said "yes" early Thursday morning to a proposal that she and Charlie keep a date with the preacher . . . As we mentioned, the five-day law foiled Cupid for the nonce . . . But Mr. Barnet's attorney was reported yesterday as busy with arrangements pointing toward an early union of his client and the best-known member of the 1939 Broadway beauty crop . . . Meantime, the "larger millionaire" is described by friends of Miss Andrews as being "mad about the girl."

IF IT DOESN'T PAN OUT—It's still a good story . . . Congressman John W. McCormack of South Boston is the "dark horse" among the candidates for the seat made vacant on the Supreme Court Bench by the death of Pierce Butler . . . Perhaps we should give you an idea of the authority for the report . . . It comes to this corner via a widely-known Boston office-holder who heard the story from the lips of a nationally-syndicated commentator . . . Although the commentator is on the "outs" with the Roosevelt administration (after enjoying high favor for a year or two), he has "scooped" his Washington confreres frequently enough to prove that he has valuable news contacts close to the throne . . . Two weeks ago, approximately, he told his Boston friend that Justice Butler was gravely ill . . . And that Congressman McCormack was a possible successor to the venerable justice in event that Mr. Butler died or resigned.

SO MANY OBJECTIONS can be interposed, such as geographical hurdles and the fact that the last Roosevelt court appointee, Felix Frankfurter, hailed from New England, that the McCormack report probably will not be taken too seriously . . . on the chance that it may come true, however, we are presenting it for what it was worth . . . It indicates, at any rate, the height of the esteem in which the South Boston congressman is held by the Administration . . . Remember he stayed "in line" in the embargo debate and balloting.

COLUMBIA BUYS NEW CRONIN NOVEL

By Louella O. Parsons

Dr. A. J. Cronin

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 17—Harry Cohn isn't waiting for Dr. A. J. Cronin to write a single word of his new novel, "Doctor of Lennox," before grabbing it for a Columbia-Wesley Ruggles production. The famous British novelist, who has been living quietly in Beverly Hills with his wife and two-year-old baby for several weeks, outlined his new story to Harry and Wes over a luncheon table.

Late Dr. Cronin's former success, "The Citadel," the unwritten "Doctor Lennox" is the story of an idealistic young doctor who goes to a small town in England to help the poor and needy. Three women play havoc with his career—but at last he finds peace and contentment in his work. Of course, Robert Donat, who was so wonderful in "The Citadel," would be ideal as the doctor. And there's a good chance they might get him. There's plenty of time to negotiate because fast Ruggles will direct "Too Many Husbands" and "Arizona," and Dr. Cronin wants to write his novel before it is screened.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD AND SAN FRANCISCO: Richard Carlson was rushed to the hospital for an emergency operation Thursday night, which means "And So Goodbye" will be postponed for weeks; Judy Garland's mother marries William Gilmore of Santa Paula today; Marlene Dietrich and George Brent came with separate parties to the Bulichki—but they soon got together for a chat.

LAURIE LANE, who used to go places with Burgess Meredith, dining at the House of Murphy with Lee Carlow; Barbara Bennett Downey thought Morton looked at their own children so much it would be nice if she invited in four neighborhood kids to sing "Happy Birthday" to him; Rita Lowe leaves the hospital Saturday; I'm beginning to feel just like a real reporter. After the late show last night Arleen Whelan, Joy Hodges, Susan Hayward, little Junie Preisner and the gang went to "The Cathay" (the best Chinese food in San Francisco) for the proverbial midnight snack.

ADDISON RANDALL is still a stage door Johnny, at the Cafe Lamaze waiting to take Patsy D'Orsay home; Linda Darnell's sister, Undine, is coming out from Texas to marry Harry Hunter. The wedding will be held in Linda's new home in about two or three weeks; Isa Miranda, who has been ill, has taken a house at Santa Monica; Joan Blondell leaves New York Sunday for Hollywood but Dick Powell won't be back until he makes his personal appearance in Buffalo; Franchot Tone's New York show, "The Fifth Column" has been postponed until spring—Franchot will leave today or tomorrow to a broadcast in the big town.

DAILY STORY A Hide-Out

WHILE IN SHANGHAI, two weeks after the settlement was bombed, I had shopping to do. After this tour I walked over to the safety zone to await the street car.

Within a few minutes a leprous beggar held out his hand for a pittance.

You must learn, in China, not to open your purse, for if you do you are likely to be knocked down and trampled upon in a mad scramble for its contents.

THE POOR SOULS should have the sympathy of the world. However, in China especially, you must learn to single out the professional beggars.

Oftentimes they will infect themselves through an open wound, causing amputation of a limb, in order to make themselves more pitiable objects for charity.

The safety zone where I was standing was overcrowded with these beggars of all sorts.

Suddenly, I heard the roar of Japanese planes. Everyone was looking up, pushing and elbowing for room, then running in every direction.

I, too, looked up and ran directly in front of a battered old Ford driven by a coolie. I positively draped myself over the hood so that he could not get away without me. He saw how terrified I was and opened the door for me, keeping the car in motion while I climbed in.

We were both taking at the same time, neither understanding the other's language. But we both knew we needed a "hideout," a place of refuge.

On that need the Chinese coolie and myself were in complete agreement, and there really was no use for words.

BUT NO BOMBS fell that day, and finally the planes ceased circling and droned away toward the horizon.

Sitting in the battered Ford, the coolie and I looked at each other in unspoken relief.

There was no need, even, for the coin which I dropped into his hand. He had been as frightened as I.

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

SURE'S the Harvest Moon rides high . . . and the season of Brotherly Love rolls 'round—I can count on a crop of them. Crop of what? Letters. Peafish letters. Wounded letters. Suspicious letters, embittered by past experience. All asking the same question—"Does it pay to be generous to people . . . Do they deserve the kindness and consideration they receive?"

There's only one answer to that question—The other fellow may not deserve your generosity, but you deserve it. He may be unworthy of your kindness, but you're worthy. And no matter how poorly he repays your good deeds, you'll be the richer in the end, for every one of them.

WE MAKE a big mistake about kindness, most of us. We think of it as a one way proposition. But it isn't. It's a two-way transaction, with the risk all on the Taker's side and an assured 75 per cent profit for the Giver.

"But how can I profit," you snort, "when I sign a note and some low-down trickster leaves me holding the bag? I give away things I need myself, and find I've been taken for a ride!"

You WON'T profit—and you don't deserve to if you expected cash returns on free publicity. But if you give for the sheer love of giving—if you spend yourself in honest sympathy and kindness—you're bound to derive your investment regardless of how the Other Fellow acts.

Doubt it in what? In those things which are infinitely more valuable than bonds and stocks, dollars or real estate. In wisdom and friendliness . . . in breadth of vision and depth of tolerance . . . above all, in self-respect!

THE MOST precious thing in all your life is self-respect. Without it, you are an outcast and a beggar, even though you can write your check in millions. With it, you can play hop-scotch with the stars! Even though you're eating dog biscuits.

But self-respect doesn't just happen—and no one can bestow it upon you with medals or sweet kisses. You must achieve it for yourself by doing those things which you yourself can respect.

Not show-off stunts . . . not glad-hand gestures. But graceful, secret acts which may never be known or appreciated but which fortify the fiber of your own soul.

found a double-barreled shotgun and hunting rifle.

Scattered newspapers on the floor indicated that the man had traveled in Maine and Canada.

Remains of sandwiches were found in a cardboard shoe box on the running board. A coffee container held but a few dregs, indicating the couple had partaken of a picnic lunch before kee-their rendezvous with death.

The car's gas tank was empty. The ignition switch was still on. The motor had evidently kept running long after the poisonous fumes had completed their ghastly task.

Last Wednesday night the girl and Chambers left her sister Alma at the latter's place of employment. "I'm just going down town to make a phone call," were her parting words—the last words Alma was ever to hear from her.

SISTER'S STORY OF LOVE

Alma told Chief Denbort today that Chambers had driven Florence and her to her family's home in Maine and stayed there on a visit for two weeks.

They returned here Wednesday and all seemed cheerful as usual when he and Florence started off to make the phone call. Neither she nor Florence knew he was married, she said.

She said that Florence had met Chambers last summer when she was employed as a maid at a summer home. They were in each other's company almost constantly.

"When Florence did not come home Wednesday night I thought they had eloped," she added.

"I understood they were planning to get married and I just thought they had decided to do it as a surprise.

"But when I heard that he was found dead today my heart just stopped beating. I knew something terrible had happened."

Alma collapsed when police took her to an undertaking establishment to identify her dead sister.

Police then notified Mrs. Chambers at her mother's home, where she has been living with the three children, John, Robert, 2, and Barbara, 3. Mrs. Chambers was overcome.

Chambers had been employed as a welfare department foreman in the town of Barnstable.

His brother, Henry C. Chambers, reported his car stolen last Tuesday.

Medical Examiner William E. Curtin said he believed the couple had been dead for at least 48 hours.

Chambers' mother, Mrs. Arthur Day, lives in Bangor, Me. His father lives in Yarmouth.

Cape Laundry Owner Kills Self in Auto

WEST YARMOUTH, Nov. 17 (AP)—The body of George Henry Chase, 59, owner of the Cape Cod laundry since 1914, was found today in his automobile off the old West Yarmouth road. State police said he died from carbon monoxide and that a hose was found attached to the exhaust pipe. He had been missing since last night.

Grain Elevator Guarded Here

A Charlestown police guard today was thrown about a Boston & Maine grain elevator containing 3,000,000 bushels of Canadian grain after a crudely drawn swastika and hammer and sickle were found on a door.

Admitting the symbols of Germany and Russia might have been a prank, Captain John A. Dorsey of the City Square station ordered the guard at the building in Water street to prevent possible sabotage.

FOUR MALDEN MOTHERS PRESS ANTI-WAR DRIVE

Four Malden mothers, members of the Legion of Mothers of America, pledged every minute of their spare time today to bring in new recruits to the Legion in an effort to keep all American boys out of foreign wars.

The mothers are Mrs. Blanche Dawson, 88 Wyoming ave.; Mrs. Francis D. Wholley, 330 Washington st.; Mrs. E. Melzar, 10 Copeland ter.; and Mrs. Dorothy Buchanan, 88 Wyoming st.

"Now is the time for American mothers to make sacrifices," Mrs. Dawson said. "The sacrifice we would make if we sent our boys off to war would be far too great. It is not asking too much of any mother who has sons of military age to give her spare time to this most worthy cause." Evidence of the enthusiasm with which the Legion is being greeted was seen in an incident which Mrs. Dawson experienced.

"I met a veteran friend of mine and I told him of the Legion and the progress it was making. I told him that I had received pledge cards to be filled out by mothers."

"Give me some of them and I'll get them filled out," she quoted the veteran as saying.

URGES MOTHERS UNITE

When she told him that the Legion's membership was limited to women she said he replied:

"Well, this is the first time that I can say I'm sorry I'm not a woman. I've been in the war and I know what it is. We can't do too much to prevent another one."

Mrs. Dawson has one son of military age, Mrs. Wholley has two and Mrs. Melzar has one. Mrs. Buchanan has two sons approaching war age.

All agreed that if every single mother in this country got behind the movement we wouldn't have the slightest fear of war.

"Those powers," they agreed, "who would drag us into another war would run for cover if they saw an army of American mothers' up in arms against sending our boys across."

A sharp denouncement of war came yesterday in a letter sent by Mrs. Fay Stetson of Nantucket. She wrote:

"I am sending my pledge card. Please enroll me as a member. I have two sons of war age and like every mother I consider war nothing more than murder. I would not want my sons to kill another mother's boy. I think it is terrible for our sons to kill while the higher-ups sit complacently, far removed from the battlefield."

SLOGANS OF MOTHERS

At the same time other letters were received indicating that new sentries and patrols are being formed every day.

The slogans of the Legion of Mothers are:

1.—To oppose the sending of American soldiers to fight on foreign soil.

2.—To support a program of adequate national defense.

3.—To combat all aims whose object is the destruction of the American form of government.

The Legion of Mothers is open to all women who are American citizens, married or unmarried. No dues are demanded. Sign pledge cards and mail promptly to Box 228, Boston, Mass.

Judge Will Think This One Over

MILLBURN, N. J., Nov. 17 (AP)—After listening to the defense presented by a young matron charged with driving while intoxicated Judge C. Noyes Slayton decided he would ponder the problem for two weeks.

Oh, yes, admitted the defendant, her car did zig-zag at 140 but that was because her husband, sitting alongside her, fell asleep and lurching on her arm.

At police headquarters, she explained, she failed the walking backwards test because she wore four-inch French heels, and she couldn't bend over to pick up buttons because, well, her girdle was too high-waisted.

F. D.'s 'Third Term Laugh'

There's Mystery in That Duncap Corner

By EDDY GILMORE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—This is a saga with gestures and facial expressions on the third term issue, or what makes President Roosevelt laugh the loudest.

June 29, 1937—In reply to a reporter's question as to whether he would seek a third term, the President threw back his head, laughed and suggested the newsmen put on a duncap and stand in the corner.

July 9, 1937—Mrs. Roosevelt, appearing at a question and answer session of the Franklin D. Roosevelt Home Club of Hyde Park, said she hoped her husband would not seek a third term.

WHAT SOME SAY

Oct. 13, 1938—From Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President—"I wouldn't know actually whether he plans to run again, but, personally, I hope he does not. Being the son of the President is sometimes a handicap."

July 3, 1939—James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President—"Everything is up to father."

July 20, 1939—In reply to a reporter's question about a third term, the President threw back his head, laughed and suggested the newsmen put on a duncap and stand in the corner.

July 23, 1939—Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the President, said that as far as health alone was concerned, her son could stand a third term very well.

Aug. 12, 1939—On the 12th annihad deliberately inserted the ex-temporaneous hope in his recent Jefferson memorial speech he would be "able to come back by January, 1941, for the final dedication."

And everybody bit, the Executive declared with a hearty chuckle. A reporter noted that this remark had stirred up widespread political speculation concerning third-term possibilities.

Mr. Roosevelt threw his head back and laughed long and loud.

He watched everyone's face at the dedicatory exercises, he said, and they were funny as a bunch. Everyone in the audience thought something terrific was coming when he said he hoped to be back for final dedication by January, 1941. He said he did it deliberately.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT Third Term?

versary of Calvin Coolidge's statement, "I do not choose to run," the President was asked about the third term. He threw back his head and laughed, and then asked if the reporter was suggesting that he spend his holidays in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

THEN THAT LAUGHTER

Aug. 4, 1939—Postmaster-General, in Berlin—"Only Mr. Roosevelt knows whether Mr. Roosevelt will run again, and he hasn't seen fit to tell."

Nov. 10, 1939—Asked at his press conference if the announcement that friends of Vice-President Garner were pressing the Texan's candidacy would make any change in his plans, the President threw back his head, laughed and said, "Don't be so subtle." He didn't get a chance to mention the duncap and the corner, for a reporter said it for him.

The strange thing about it all is that the room in which the President holds his press conference is circular.

1—It has no corners.
2—No one has ever produced a duncap.

Sullivan Gets Lampoon Bird

A dove of peace in the shape of a 25-pound turkey strutted through the back yard of City Councilor Michael A. Sullivan in Surrey st., Cambridge, today, a symbol of the new friendship between him and the Harvard Lampoon staff.

Relations between the fiery councilor and the Harvards have been strained since the day last spring when he was on the business end of a swift kick in the pants as he protested a parade of geese stepping undergraduates.

But yesterday he cheered their proclamation of an official Lampoon Thanksgiving. The students there presented the turkey for the Sullivan table, at which the councilor, his wife, and nine children will sit down to their Thanksgiving meal Nov. 30.

Babson Hits Schools For 7 Million Idle

Asserting high school students "know more about cheers than chores," Roger Babson, investment specialist, charged today the school system in the United States was "primarily responsible for at least 7,000,000 of the 10,000,000 unemployed" in the nation.

"Business men," he declared in a prepared address before the New England Association of School Superintendents, "are forced to cease to employ the young men and women emerging from a broken-down organization which has been despoiled by political raiders."

Babson listed 10 factors which, he said, contributed to unemployment, but added:

"The big reason is that young people are being graduated from our schools today as goods are being sold by department stores."

"Politically-minded school committees are giving these children—not what untrained children need—but what misled parents think they want them to have. "I insist that the growth of our country, which was so marked previous to 1930, was largely the result of the school system preceding 1915, and, contrariwise, that the poor stock which has graduated since 1930 has largely been due to the decline—since 1915—in character of school committees."

Maintaining that as teachers' salaries went up teaching posts became better political plums, the grudge-bearing economist contended that school boards had become "political footballs."

Freed Convict Jailed Again

An ex-convict, who lost a leg two years ago when he was shot as he tried to evade police capture, today in Roxbury Court lost his liberty for four years.

He is William L. Macon, 34, of Humboldt ave., Roxbury, caught by Patrolman Nicholas Waters of the criminal investigation bureau while attempting to break into a house in Howland st., Roxbury.

Macon, who was convicted on a similar charge two years ago after he had been shot by Patrolman Thomas J. Sullivan of Station 9, already was under a suspended sentence, which had only two weeks to run.

Judge Samuel Eisenstat revoked suspension of the original sentence, and gave the prisoner two years more on the new charge. Macon, according to the court records, has served time in four different prisons.

LOSES BETS WITH STOLEN WPA CHECKS

His was a swell system for pick-Judge Miles how he happened to pass off other people's WPA checks as his own, after he had pleaded guilty to 17 counts of larceny from Westminster st., Roxbury, told the mails, and forging and uttering checks.

It all started, he said, when he had piled up a tidy fortune—on paper—picking the Larceny.

But when he started putting money on his selections, they didn't pan out so well, and before he knew it, he was in financial difficulties, he declared.

Judge Miles filed the case, and ordered Henderson turned over to federal authorities for prosecution.

Miami Bans Sticky Legs

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Nov. 17 (AP)—Persons appearing in the streets with exposed legs sometimes wet and sticky with emulsion oil provide a situation which, in the opinion of the city council, is "unsatisfactory, unsightly, distasteful and annoying."

Accordingly, an ordinance adopted yesterday requires bathers to wear robes extending from shoulders to knees, at least, when going to or from the beach in bathing suits.

It's the stickiness the council dislikes, not exposed legs. Abbreviated play suits and shorts are not affected.

INFORMATION PLEASE

Can anyone tell us the name of the man who missed his train at South Station yesterday because his watch was slow? We'd like him to call at Washington Jewelry Co., where he will receive a generous trade-in allowance toward an ACCURATE Crosby Watch!

3500 Protest R. I. Mill Wages

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Nov. 17 (AP)—More than 3500 workers in four textile mills walked out today for a one-day "holiday" in protest against refusal of the managements to grant their demands for a 20 per cent wage increase.

The walkout came suddenly after the Woonsocket Independent Textile Union served an ultimatum on the mills for at least a temporary pay boost of 15 per cent, to run for 15 days.

Joseph Schmets, president of the union, said mill officials had been "given until noon tomorrow" to answer. The temporary plan was advanced, Schmets asserted, in the hope mills in other textile centers would "follow suit." If they failed to do so, he added, the Woonsocket workers would agree to return to the present wage scale.

Nazi 'Dummy' In Sea Raids?

LONDON, Nov. 17 (INS)—The German pocket battleships Deutschland and Admiral Scheer are hidden in a German harbor, according to a neutral observer who arrived in Copenhagen from the Reich, a Reuters dispatch said today.

According to the report, the observer said he had personally seen the Admiral Scheer, adding that the German ships at present roving the Atlantic were two vessels camouflaged to resemble the Deutschland and Admiral Scheer.

Gives Money to Boy Friend

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 22 years old, and my boy friend is 30 years old. We have been seeing each other for about six months, and during all that time he has been out of work. He does an odd job once in a while for which he doesn't get much.

I have been paying his board for him, ever since I've known him, and also given him extra money. The trouble is that he is very stubborn, and if he doesn't have his way he will quarrel with me. I love him very much and get broken-hearted when he doesn't speak to me.

I'm afraid, my dear, that this young man is not worthy of you. To help a friend over a tight place is all right sometimes but for a young able-bodied man of 30 to take money from a girl continually, and even allow her to pay his board, is incomprehensible. I hope you will stop doing this. Why don't you suggest that he try to get a job in a re-forestation camp? Regular out-of-door work will be good for him. I shouldn't worry over his stubbornness. Get a boy friend who is less selfish.

LONELY.

Manners

Bouillon Cup

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:

1—Will you please tell me if it is good form to drink soup from a bouillon cup, and if so, should both hands be used?

2—When dining with a gentleman, should he sit to my right or left?

IN DOUBT.

1—First we take a few sips of the soup, with the bouillon spoon or tea spoon, to test the heat of the soup, and then we drink the rest of the soup from the cup, as we would drink tea. And we take up the bouillon cup with the right hand, as we lift the teacup.

Navigoto Salad Will Delight Guests

(Tested by Good Housekeeping Institute)

INGREDIENTS:

- 1 head lettuce
- 1 c. sliced cooked or canned tongue
- 1 c. sliced cooked or canned ham
- 1 c. sliced celery
- 1 c. drained canned or fresh cooked peas

1 c. sliced fresh tomatoes
24 c. well-seasoned French dressing
Chill all ingredients thoroughly before using. Remove the largest leaves from lettuce and reserve to garnish the salad. Break the remaining leaves into small pieces and combine with the peas, vegetables and French dressing, tossing them together lightly with a fork and spoon. Line a bowl or platter with the lettuce leaves, arrange the salad mixture in it and serve at once. Serves 6. To serve 2, make one-third this recipe.

SERVE with canned mushrooms, soup, hot biscuits and marmalade.

Smart Set Fashions

Study in Sophistication

IT'S a delightful paradox... that in this season of muffling furs some of the smartest get-outs are based on severely simple ensembling. The important point of this costume, featured in the current Harper's Bazaar, is without doubt the tremendous pillow muff of silver fox. And see how it is played up to, how its glorious silvering is enhanced by the cagey simplicity of the strictly tailored suit, the snooded pillbox, the finely pleated blouse with its tiny front frill and the sprig of valley lilies.—ANNICE BRINK.

You Can Be Beautiful

Night Glamour By Day

By ARLINE GOULD
YOU'LL FEEL that you are really getting something precious when you buy a new beauty box that's just arrived. And so you will! It's not only a grand buy when figured in dollars and cents, but it's a glamour buy as well.

We're particularly impressed by the etched golden metal box, a very big one, that holds the powder supply. This will never look dog-eared or soiled, and it gives perfect protection to the powder, so moisture and fragrance are kept quite unimpaired.

Decoratively put up is the powder, a rouge compact and lipstick. The lipstick, $1.10, the new rouge compact, $1, and the full size of powder—everything is packed in a leatherette box and offered for $14.50. A red acetate case through the packaging just the same brilliant vermillion that is this fall's most popular shade.

There is real colorist magic in the rouge and powder, because they have been skilfully blended to look warm invitingly soft in the hairiest, most glowing sunshine. With true French genius, the creator of these cosmetics has balanced and blended colors to eliminate shades which turn cold and hard in daylight. They've been tested under violet rays, and only clear, warm tones have been chosen, those which are utterly young, natural and glamorous. They're just as wonderfully effective in the evening, too.

If you'd like to learn about this strikingly handsome gift box of powder, rouge compact and lipstick for $14.50, phone Arline Gould, LIB-erly 4000, week-days until 5:30, or write, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

MANY OF BOSTON'S best skiers had a pre-view of winter last night at the Junior League where Christopher Young showed his new color movie "30,000 Miles to Ski" . . .

Mr. Young is the husband of Mary Bird, daughter of the Paul Birds of Beacon Hill . . . He knows a thing or two about skiing and Mary is a former Olympic star, so their two years of married life has been a prolonged honeymoon trip to the world's most famous skiing centers . . .

The movie begins with a shot of Mary, or Polly as Chris calls her in his lecture, on the deck of their ship as it passed the Statue of Liberty en route to Europe and spring skiing in the Alps . . . Scenes of Polly gliding down snow covered mountain slopes in all sorts of difficult turns had all the skiers in the audience sighing with envy . . .

After their return from Europe the couple piled their car high with skis, camping equipment and maps and headed for the West where they visited Sun Valley and famous national parks, as well as remote Indian villages, ruins of ancient civilization in the Rockies . . . and they even climbed mountain peaks seldom scaled by man . . .

Cohasset Society Well Represented

THE FASCINATING PICTURES had the audience practically spellbound . . . Sitting way down front were several of Mary's summer neighbors in Cohasset, Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Fisher, Polly Long with her fiancé, Irving Chase, and Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Cunner . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mixter, Jr., the latter in a smart turquoise tweed outfit with checked jacket and hat, and purse of the plain tweed to match her skirt, attended together, and others in the packed League Ballroom were Nancy Peabody in a pale green lame dress with a mink-collared lame jacket; Frances McElwain, well known woman skier; Josefa Richmond with her cousin, Virginia Richmond, and several of this season's debas including Betsy Inches, Mary Ellis, Mary Wigglesworth, Faith Sulloway and Josephine Murray . . .

Sitting together in one row were Reine Plimpton with her father, T. Barnett Plimpton, Mary Ross, Mrs. Albert Kales and several others . . . Dr. Alexander Forbes and his daughter, Janet, saved a seat beside them for Leslie Eustis who wore a black dress with effective insets in the shoulders of shirred rainbow colored silk . . . Still others there included Eleanor Claffin, Mrs. Thomas Claffin, Nancy and Phil Tucker, Mrs. G. Lincoln Dow, Jr., Anne Peterson, Raymond Higgins with a tall blond escort and Dottie Rackemann who served as ticket taker . . .

Notes From a Society Editor's Cuff

HARVARD-YALE parties are beginning to loom on the social horizon . . . Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Cummings of Frides Crossing have invited a crowd of their North Shore neighbors to drop in for luncheon before motoring to Cambridge for the game . . . Mr. and Mrs. David Taylor, a recent bridal couple, have chosen the week-end of the game to give a housewarming at their new Beacon Hill abode, and as usual at the time of the annual gridiron classic, the Henry S. Grews will be among week-end hosts . . .

Mrs. Erret Van Nice (Ruth Swift) of Chicago, who brought her small daughter home for a pre-holiday visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Swift of Commonwealth ave., gave a tea for some of her former Beantown girl friends after Symphony the other day . . .

Her friends are happy to see Harriet Hayward Sanders flitting around to social events again . . . as hale and hearty as she was before the serious auto accident which resulted in her walking on crutches for a long time . . . She is the daughter of Mrs. Harry Hayward of Beacon st., and recently returned from a long sojourn in Europe.

MARY ELLIS, deb daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William V. Ellis of Brookline, celebrated her first week's anniversary as a provisional member of the Junior League by attending the lecture at the League last evening by Christopher Young.

At the conclusion of the church ceremony a reception will be held at the Philomatheia Club Chalet in Chestnut Hill.

Nora Flaherty is to be maid of honor at her sister's wedding, and the bridesmaids include Evelyn Clune, Newton; Nora Brennan, Allston; Margaret Hall, Brookline, and Dorothy Melley, Stoneham. Dr. Eddy's Question Box

IS SALT CRAVING DANGEROUS?

DO COSMETICS AGGRAVATE HIVES?

By DR. WALTER H. EDDY

Director of Good Housekeeping Bureau

Can you tell me why my little daughter, aged 6½ years, has what seems to me an unnatural appetite for salt? She begs for handfuls at all times of the day and eats it straight. She likes baking soda and Sal Hepatica equally well.

The craving for foreign substances, including dirt, is not an uncommon occurrence in children, but his craving for salt is something that should be corrected.

The human system requires only a small amount of salt a day—about a fourteenth of an ounce. If more than that is taken, it requires an increased amount of water to keep it in solution in the body tissues, and this tends toward an abnormal retention of water in the body. It also places certain burdens on the kidney in the matter of eliminations.

Constant use of salt, such as your child appears to practice, can not help but lay the foundation for profound disturbances in the physiology of the body.

HIVES INDICATE SOMETHING

For years I have been troubled with urticaria (hives). I have had many skin tests, but so far as I know the only things tried other than food were hair, felt, andorris root. None of these have any particular reaction. I have wondered whether the cream that I have used to alleviate sunburn, heat, and itching might aggravate the condition.

A. M. G.
It is a general impression that urticarias are due to some toxic substance absorbed into the blood. Usually it is some food product which provides toxic material. Sometimes it is a substance which is absorbed directly through the skin, and in some hair dyes and cosmetics there are ingredients which, while harmless to the great majority of people, produce in certain individuals a toxic effect.

I can only advise you to extend your tests until the entire range of substances eaten or used externally has been included.

These words could be very nicely made into a sampler and hung in the most prominent place in the kitchen, with these changes making them applicable to kitchen life: "The way to win and hold appetites of those who sit around your table is to serve the unexpected food, not the same old thing."

To the homemaker whose budget is limited ~~and~~ not too flexible this suggestion may be somewhat of a problem. But that may be easily solved if she will but look over her menus contemplatively and think what item she can alter.

WASHINGTON EPIC ABOUNDS IN SCREEN ENTERTAINMENT

Should Be Must For Film Fans

By PEGGY DOYLE

Frank Capra's "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," now tenaning I. W. State and Orpheum theaters, is going to make the Senate seem a pretty dull place from now on.

For this star-spangled testament to liberty and democracy, besides giving you an arduous trip to Washington and a tour of its historic shrines f.o.b., takes you into the hallowed United States Senate and let you in on the fine art of the filibuster.

In some of the most stirring sequences ever filmed, the uninitiated young Senator Smith is shown fighting an entire party machine as his tired, cracked voice talks on throughout the night to put through his bill.

There are some indignant members of the Senate who believe that Mr. Capra's Capitol screen document is an affront to their personal dignity because one white-haired senator in "Mr. Smith" is shown to have used his respected office to promote graft.

The rest of us who are not hampered by can't-see-the-forest-for-the-trees myopia can't fail but be constantly cozened by Mr. Capra's very real reverence for and belief in the government served—sometimes not too well by these highly placed gentlemen.

His Mr. Smith, who is perfectly realized by James Stewart, goes to Washington to fill the unexpired term of the senior senator's stooge. As the leader of the Boy Rangers, his appointment is a tribute to the country's clean-limbed youth. He is young, honest but, the senior senator hopes, too wide-eyed to help to the graft clause the latter is trying to push through the Senate.

But Senator Jefferson Smith did catch on. He hardly dared trust his suspicions at first, because the senior senator was his dead father's trusted partner and his own youthful ideal of a statesman. But his efficient, all-knowing secretary, Jean Arthur, contributed more facts and the young senator promptly decided to face the lions in their den.

The scene in the Senate when at a loss for what to do after he has stirred up a senatorial hornet's nest, he reads Secretary Arthur's busy lips and correctly follows her directions, is Capra and his co-stars at their best, and again there is that impressive moment when his voice cracks as he gets up to read his bill and later, much later, there is that moment when he whistles at the senators who have turned their backs on him just to see if they still have faces. Stewart has never been better, and there is that marvelous when Claude Rains, as the senior senator; Edward Arnold, as the political steam-roller; and Thomas Mitchell, as the sophisticated correspondent are all excellent. "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" is not to be missed.

Bob Hope 'Wisecracks' Way to New Triumph

Spoofing the spooks in "The Cat and the Canary," talkie remake of the successful silent version of a dozen years ago, is one of the best things Bob Hope has done on the screen.

Now showing on the Paramount and Fenway screens, Paramount's version of John Willard's Broadway thriller, co-starring Hope and the glamorous Paulette Goddard, is excellent entertainment.

Hope was never more happily camped than as the quipping, Wallie Campbell who wisecracks to keep up his spirits. Sometimes the suspense is so terrific that his "goose bumps get goose pimples," but Hope carries on imperturbably.

His co-star, Miss Goddard, whose acting ability was most recently demonstrated in "The Women," displays skill and charm as the heir of the eccentric millionaire.

Briefly, the will has been read in the deserted, lonely mansion of Hope, Miss Goddard, Gale Sondergaard, the late millionaire's housekeeper—Douglas Montgomery, John Egan, Elizabeth Patterson and Nydia Westman.

It is 10 years since the death of the owner and, as Atty. George Zucco finally finds out, the will, it is revealed that Miss Goddard is the heiress, only if she is alive and sane within a month. From then on, everything happens to make the saneest of humans go raving, gibbering mad. It is only Hope's leveling influence, his peerless brand of humor, that sustains Paulette through her ordeal. Eclectic music, sliding panels, ghostlike talons of hands reaching to strike, suddenly dimmed lights—all these things contribute to make you wonder if Paulette will live to claim her inheritance.

If Hope knows anything about it she will, and he does and she does. For he solves the seemingly unfathomable mystery of "The Cat" after three murders have been committed.

THE TROUBLE WITH AMY

A Complete Short Story Daily on This Page

BY CHARLES MCGUIRK

JOHN BALES would have had to live alone if it hadn't been for his sister, Amy Armister. But he didn't want to live alone. He childless and when Agnes, his wife, died, he traveled 300 miles to see his sister, his only sister.

"Sis," he said, "you know I've been alone for five months and I find that I'm afraid to be that way. I am afraid of dying and being found dead with nobody to take care of me. I need somebody. I wonder if you'd come and live with me."

Amy looked at him down her nose. She was the kind of person who looks down the nose because she believed that life hadn't been any too kind to her.

She had been left a widow with a year-old daughter 30 years ago and her daughter up and left her to get married and have her own family. Amy couldn't blame Alice for that, really, because nature is nature and love is love.

Alice had two children, Michael and Jean, but that didn't mean very much to Amy because Alice was a self-sufficient person. She called on doctors and nurses when she was having her babies and she consulted food authorities and child specialists to bring them up.

As though a woman like Amy who had been a mother didn't know more about the care of and handling of children than any six food authorities or child specialists!

And make John here. He never cared about her. It was very seldom that he came to see her while Agnes was alive. All right. Granted that they lived 300 miles away from each other. Wouldn't you think that a brother would make the sacrifice of a few hours to see his only sister?

And what if he and Agnes did invent a way to visit them time after time?

She wasn't sure that they meant it and she wouldn't impose herself on anybody. And why didn't he make more of it whenever he sent her money? She would say that for him. He sent her a check every month as regular as clockwork. He had lots of it, but plenty of people who had lots of money didn't take care of the people who were supposed to be the nearest and dearest to them.

What made her angry with him was that he never mentioned it. Why couldn't he say:

"Amy, here's a little money for you. I just happened to see it lying loosely around so I thought I'd send it to you."

But no. Here came along the check every month and not a word said about it. She supposed if she ever mentioned it, he would deny that he had even sent it.

"I don't know," she said very independently. "I have my own way of life. I'm seventy and you're eighty-one. Maybe we wouldn't get along at all."

"All right," John agreed. "It just occurred to me that you and I are alone and we're both old people. I thought maybe we'd get along pretty well. We always did when we were children. You used to lag along behind me every place we went. I'm sorry you won't come."

"I didn't say I wouldn't come," Amy snapped. "I said maybe we wouldn't get along. Then again maybe we would. I'm willing to give it a trial. There won't be any harm done if we don't happen to make it go."

"Then you will come," John said. "I'd do anything to help any one, let alone my own brother," Amy explained.

"When can you start?" John asked.

"I'm just about three days," Amy told him, "and you might as well stay here until I'm ready. And then we'll go together."

So that's the way it happened. Amy looked over her house and remembered all the things that happened in it. She remembered Henry, her husband, and Alice's birth and childhood. All her life was in those eight rooms. When she left them, she would be an old woman who had thrown away her life and the memories it had brought.

So she packed up her things and called a real estate agent and put her house on the market. She had her trunks sent to John's address and when everything was ready, she said:

"Well, let's go. To tell you the truth, I'm kind of glad to get away from this town. People here don't appreciate a person like me. I guess maybe they think I'm peculiar."

"I've said good-by to everybody from this town. People here don't appreciate a person like me. I guess maybe they think I'm peculiar."

"I've said good-by to everybody from this town. People here don't appreciate a person like me. I guess maybe they think I'm peculiar."

and to the grocer and the butcher and the baker and the milkman. I'll just have to meet some new ones and they probably won't be so pleasant as the ones I've left and, goodness knows, none of them was too pleasant.

"Here's the cab. We may miss the train. That Lem Haskins don't have any more idea about time than a rabbit."

And so Amy came to John's. John's was a nice place. He had three acres of ground, the remainder of 40 he had once owned and which he had split up and sold for an immense profit.

John was a wealthy man. On his place were apple and peach and pear trees and in the spring he cultivated his land and he had garden truck right out of his own garden.

He was thrifty. He thought long and deeply before he spent a dime.

If you asked him for money, he looked at you with a faraway look and he made you angry from waiting. By the time he gave it to you, you were so mad, you couldn't see.

A PENNY-PINCHER

At least, that is the way he affected Amy. She hated to ask him for money. She was used to spending as she pleased. When she saw something she liked, and she could afford it, she bought it and thought snoo for it myself. I like to look around."

So he would hire a car, never thinking that the hire would add to the cost of the chair and he'd hobble into two or three stores and he'd finally end up by buying a chair, maybe in the first store he had gone to.

It used to make Amy so mad that she wouldn't talk to him for days. A miser, she'd think, that's what John was. She never remembered when that realization came to her. One day she had it and you never could get it out of her mind.

And nobody remembered when she started telling people about John. John had a lot of friends, having lived all his 81 years in one place. They dropped in to see him while he sat under a pear tree and talked about things that happened 70 years before.

He had chairs and benches for visitors and men and women would come into the yard and spend a few minutes with him.

There was never a day from late spring to early autumn that he couldn't find somebody there chinning with John.

Amy met them all—and liked them. She wouldn't admit it, even to herself, but whenever anyone came to call on John, Amy would took me a long time to get over the shock of it. But I finally managed it and I was getting along all right until one day John came and asked me to live with him and take care of him. I didn't think it would work out and I told him so. But he insisted. So I came.

"I gave up everything to do it. And it was just like I thought it would be only worse. He's very tight with his money. I have to beg him to give me enough for household expenses. And I know just as well as I'm talking to you that when he dies he won't leave me a penny."

"Oh, I don't believe that," the visitor would say.

"No, he won't," Amy would insist. "He's always talking about missionaries and I'm sure he'll leave all his money to some church for work in foreign fields. And here I am giving my whole life to him. I tell you, it isn't a nice thing to think about."

"I'm sure you're mistaken," the visitor would say hastily and depart, feeling a little sorry for both John and Ann.

RICH BUT SAD

Amy was mistaken. When John died, he left all he had to Amy. Besides the property, there was a very large sum of money. Amy was rich beyond her wildest dreams.

You would think that coming into a fortune would cheer her up. But it didn't.

She became more and more gloomy as time went on. People didn't come in to see her as they had come to see John. And she missed them.

She told the few visitors she had that there must be something wrong with her or she would have just as many friends as John had had.

It was useless to point out that John had lived in his place all his life and she was a comparative stranger. She couldn't see it that way. She got very sad.

Then her daughter sent for her. She was having a baby. Amy told her friends that here she was again going to help out people who didn't care two pins about her until they needed her.

When she got on the train, you would think she was going to a funeral.

She was gone two months. When she came back, she looked radiant. She was more cheerful than anybody in town had ever seen her. People remarked about it. They wondered what had happened to change her whole personality like that.

One day, Sarah Lenox, the town gossip, could contain her curiosity no longer.

"Amy," she said, "you must have had some wonderful experience when you went to visit your daughter. You are so happy now."

"Wonderful experience!" Amy snapped. "I had a terrible experience. I was treated like a dog. My daughter and her husband and their children made a regular slave of me. I tell you that in all my life I've never had anything but ingratitude."

"But that baby is wonderful. He weighed nine pounds when he was born."

BILL MULLEN, director of recreation for the Park Department, expects a crowd of 30,000 persons when the St. Lazarus football team of East Boston and the Codman Club of Dorchester battle for the Park Department championship at Fenway Park on Sunday afternoon. I do not believe Bill is high in his estimate of the probable attendance as 75,000 persons have been watching the playground games each Sunday.

In former years, the final contest of the Park Department league was staged at one of the parks or playgrounds. There was always a great deal of inconvenience for the thousands of people who wished to attend the game. Other thousands remained away with the thought in mind they would not be able to get proper seating accommodations.

Park Commissioner William Long, Bill Mullen and Mayor Maurice J. Tobin took the matter up with Eddie Collins of the Red Sox, and the latter offered the use of Fenway Park for Sunday afternoon's game. In view of Park Department traditions, it was decided there would not be any admission charge.

The Codman club won the Eastern championship of the Park Department league, while the St. Lazarus eleven took the title in the Western division.

Bill Mullen has arranged for the House of the Angel Guardian band to supply music. Between halves the Roxbury Red Wings and Moriarty club will battle for the midget championship of the Park Department league.

There has been a steady growth of the Park Department league. It has featured football and baseball, but has also given a helping hand to boxing and to other sports.

As the Park Department leagues have expanded, there have not been enough suitable playgrounds.

The teams of the Catholic Youth Organization and other amateur leagues also require playground space. Where possible the city should build additional playgrounds, while some of the present playgrounds such as the Carolina ave. grounds in Jamaica Plain should be improved.

With Mayor Tobin and Park Commissioner Long so vitally interested in recreation for the youth of our city, I feel the playground situation will grow steadily better.

Additional areas at Jamaica Pond should be opened to athletics. It is better for the city to furnish safe places for children to play than to have the youngsters killed by automobiles while trying to snatch their recreation on the streets.

Crack Players on Rival Elevens

THERE ARE numerous star players on the St. Lazarus and Codman Club lineups.

The lineup of the St. Lazarus club is as follows: Erama, l. e.; Bach, l. t.; Amaroso, c.; Agrillo, r. g.; Deleo, r. t.; Minichello, r. e.; Goldstein, q. b.; Sacco, l. h. b.; Hanaford, r. h. b.; Farmer, f. b. Here is how the Codman club will take the field: Curran, r. e.; Sullivan, r. t.; Dwyer, r. g.; Fitzgerald, c.; Fitzpatrick, l. g.; Manning, l. t.; McDonald, l. e.; Settino, q. b.; Cadigan, r. h. b.; Saparito, l. h. b.; Minichello, f. b.

The officials will be George Taylor, referee; Ernie Stevens, umpire; Hugh Dunn, head linesman, and William Walsh, field judge. The game will start at 2:30 p. m.

Bill Osmanski's Record as a Pro

BILL OSMANSKI, former Holy Cross star and a member of the Hearst All-America football team for 1938, continues to set the pace in the National Football League for yards gained. He has picked up 603 yards in 110 attempts for an average of 5.4 yards. Osmanski is being closely pressed by Joe Maniaci of the Chicago Bears who has gained 501 yards in 70 attempts for the high average of 7.1 yards.

Parker Hall of Cleveland leads in forward passing efficiency. He has completed 60 out of 130 passes. His passes were for 827 yards, while 11 of them were intercepted. He has a record of .461. Ace Parker is in second place with 53 completed passes out of 129, but with a yardage pickup of 850.

Arnie Herber of Green Bay threw 43 successful passes out of 111 tries for a yardage gain of 879. Only six of Herber's passes were intercepted.

Dave O'Brien, 150-pounder with Philadelphia, completed 43 passes out of 91 attempts. He completed 19 passes against the Green Bay Packers last Sunday, which established a new league record. The old record was held by Pat Coffey, Cardinals, 1937, and Ace Parker, Brooklyn, 1939, with 15 completed passes.

O'Brien tosses a football for great distances and with remarkable accuracy. In professional football, he has lived up to the highest expectations of his college supporters.

B. U. Plans to Beat B. C. Through Air

By DAVE GLUECK

Unless Boston College improves its pass defense considerably before facing the 3. U. aerial barrage tomorrow, Hanley's thin men are liable to stage an upset of major proportions.

The Leahy lads have booted only one game this year, and that was due to mistakes in the pass defense.

After outrushing Florida by a considerable margin, two long forwards cost them the game. St. Joseph's connected with a long one that put them on the Eagle three-yard line, in position for a score. Auburn had a short pass over center that worked every time they tried it.

Their left end would go down the field three steps, then cut over sharply behind the line, always managing to shake the B. C. secondaries. Temple managed some completions against the Heights men, and Detroit rattled the second line of defense with short lobbs.

In practice the Eagles still show considerable doubt and indecision about the extent of their aerial responsibility. Like most modern coaches, Leahy has taught his boys a modified zone defense. When two potential receivers move through one zone the defense has to pass them on from one to another so that everyone is covered.

This takes considerable practice and so far the Jesuit backfield has failed to master the knack.

HANLEY PLANNED AHEAD

Boston University has just the kind of team to capitalize on this deficiency.

In Williams and Salvati, Hanley has a capable pair of trouble shooters. Charlie Thomas heads the list of receivers. Curiously enough Thomas is much shorter than the ideal catcher, but if the ball gets loose, and bobbles around, young Charles is sure to come up with it, no matter how many mastodons are hounding him in.

Hanley makes no secret of the fact that he plans to attack B. C. via the air. If his boys can only offer enough of a running attack to keep the entire Leahy line from dropping back, the passing may prove effective.

Normally B. C. would concentrate on a power attack for the University men, but with Toczykowski and Cowbig ailing their important quarterback post is no longer very secure.

COWBIG OUT

Cowbig is definitely out, and it is extremely doubtful that "the Hammer" will see any action. This leaves Lucy and McGowan to do the heavy blocking. Lucy hasn't played much this year, and McGowan is newly shifted from halfback.

So the vaunted Eagle power will not be at par in the Fenway tomorrow. Instead, Leahy may be planning a passing attack of his own. Something is going on at Alumni Field, and it's no secret that not even the faculty is allowed to witness it.

Leahy confessed after the Detroit game that his quarterbacks hadn't been pressed hard enough to completely tip their hands. Doubtless, he has plenty of new tricks up the sleeve, and is polishing still others.

PLANS FOR HOLY CROSS

So far this year we have not shown anything startling in the way of defenses. There are probably among the things that are coming in for secret consideration, but whether this is in honor of B. U. or Kansas State and Holy Cross remains to be seen.

CORNELL 10-6 CHOICE TO TIP OVER GREEN

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 17—In spite of Capt. Whit Miller's return to end in the Dartmouth lineup, the big Green remains on the short end of 10-6 odds, as it finishes preparation for the Cornell game here tomorrow.

During the last three years, the Green and the Red have been two of the most powerful teams in the Ivy association, with the boys from Ithaca showing a slight edge on the records.

This season, Carl Snavely brings an undrafted squad to Hanover with his usual wealth of good material, but he meets a Black guard which is considerably undermanned in comparison to recent meetings.

Wild Bill Hutchinson is the lone standout on the Indian outfit, while the Cayuga cavalry boasts a handful of good backs in Baker, McCullough, Schor and Bohman.

Nevertheless, Dartmouth has an intrepid, cleverly coached club and may rebound from their Princeton defeat by upsetting one of the nation's top teams.

PICK 11 SWIMMERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Amateur Union today announced it will send a team of eleven swimmers, eight men and three women, to Brazil and Argentina.

CONVERT. Here's Bob Krieger, great Dartmouth end. Bob went to Hanover rated as all-America backfield material, but never lived up to his promise. Best he blossomed into a star the first day he played at end.

Spreyer Shifted To Make Room For Macdonald

FANCY DANCER—Charley Spreyer of Harvard, dynamic tailback, shows a very tricky step in the Stadium. Charley, and Harvard's other topflight second year men, are hitting their peak for the coming Yale game, and are due to romp tomorrow against New Hampshire.

Capt. Torbie Macdonald is certain to play tomorrow for Harvard. This announcement was made by Coach Dick Harlow after physicians put their stamp of approval on his ailing knee that has kept him on the sidelines with the exception of one game.

28,000 to See H. C., Carnegie

WORCESTER, Nov. 17.—Holy Cross meets Carnegie Tech here tomorrow before a sell-out crowd of 28,000.

In spite of injuries that will keep three regulars off the field, the Crusaders are 10-7 favorites to take the thrice-frustrated Skibos into camp.

Titus, Whelan and Barry (center, quarterback and end) are definitely out of the game, but Worcester is breathing a lot easier since it announced that Joe Sheeketski

Ronnie Cahill, called by Coach Sheeketski "the greatest left halfback in the country," has been removed from the doctor's list.

Cahill suffered a knee bruise in the Temple game that has kept him on the sidelines all week. He isn't running at top speed yet, but his pitching arm is in perfect shape and he should be a big help against the powerful Pittsburgh club.

This is the fifth meeting between the two teams, with the Purple claiming two wins, one tie and one loss. The Skibos have been edged by Notre Dame, N. Y. U. and Pitt in the last three games and are desperate for a victory.

The Cross, as everyone knows, came back from its single loss to L. S. U. and has swept its schedule since.

There are rumors circulating that the Crusaders still hope for a Bowl bid. This battle will go a long way toward deciding that situation.

Charley Spreyer, sensation sophomore, who single handed whipped the Army, will return to his original position putting Mack at the tail back spot.

The other two starting backs will be Joe Gardella and Bill Coleman. George Downing has been named to fill in the guard post vacated by Chub Peabody, who is nursing injuries incurred in the Army game.

Harvard, after several defeats, has rebounded in fine fashion and now will be a dangerous opponent for Yale in the game a week from Saturday, and New Hampshire may be sacrificed as Dick Harlow will probably give his regulars and his subs a chance to tune up for the ancient classic with the Bulldogs.

Macdonald participated in the mid-week scrimmage at Soldier's Field and came through the test in good shape. Torby still seems rather rusty from his long lay-off, but flashed bits of his old form.

The rest of the Harvard team which will take the field will be the same as the team which opened the Army game. The "Wildcats" and Harvard have met many times before. This year there is a rather odd touch to the New Hampshire invasion. The head coach will have his brother in the invading lineup as the quarter-back. Eddie is the player and his brother George Sauer is the coach. Eddie is a strapping of 160 and looks like a midget compared with his famous brother, who was an All-American in college days.

New Hampshire Banks On Lightweight Backs

DURHAM, N. H., Nov. 17 (INS).—Two 140-pounders, Harold Hall, North Attleboro, Mass., and Stacy Clark, Marblehead, Mass., are carrying the Wildcats' hopes of a win over Harvard in the Stadium tomorrow.

The New Hampshire eleven will enter Cambridge hoping for the breaks and ready to capitalize on them.

Miami Cards Bowl Game to Aid Paralysis Fund

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP).—The sports world is ready to do its bit to help stamp out infantile paralysis.

Opening its campaign to raise money for that purpose, the national sports council of the committee for the celebration of the President's birthday has booked a national high school football championship—the Stet Bowl game—for Miami Fla., Christmas day.

But this game, important as it is, will be only one of a thousand sports events sponsored by the sports council, headed by Grantland Rice, New York columnist, to raise money.

Teams for the Stet Bowl will be selected by a committee of sports writers and the game will be played in the Orange Bowl stadium, scene of an annual inter-collegiate game.

High schools throughout the country are being notified of the game, and participants must meet eligibility standards of the National Federation of State High School Associations.

Miami High School, which for the past 11 years has taken on an opponent Christmas Day, is being touted as one of the possible representatives in the game.

214 Cocker Spaniels Entered in Show

America's largest specialty dog show, attracting a field of 214 cocker spaniel entries, opened today in Horticultural Hall for two days of judging.

TIME FOR CHOW

Cocker spaniel pups are never late answering dinner bell.

The entry represented the highest quality cockers in the 18-year history of this Boston show staged under the auspices of the Cocker Spaniel Breeders Club of New England.

In addition to judging for "best of breed" to be awarded tomorrow night at 9 o'clock, features are the $1000 Big Four Novice Stakes and the Obedience Training exhibition scheduled tonight at 8. The $1000 stakes, biggest money prize in dogdom, will be contested by 45 outstanding young cockers.

The best known show dog in America, Champion My Own Brucie, will receive the lion's share of attention from show visitors. He won the Governor Winant Cup for "best of breed" here last year and went on to defeat over 4000 dogs in this year's Morris and Essex classic.

Brucie is being exhibited by Herman E. Mellenstien of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., regarded as a "miracle man" among dog breeders because of many fine successes.

Among prominent Massachusetts breeders who will be seeking high honors are D. B. Gilman of Boston, who bred the cocker now mounted in the Peabody Museum at Yale and regarded as the most perfect specimen that ever lived; Richard K. Hutchins, club president; Douglas J. Sheppard, club treasurer; Mrs. Herman W. Kross, club director; Mistover Kennels, Kitchener Kennels, Mepal Kennels, Dr. Frank Carter and Dana B. Jefferson, Jr.

Chicago Coach Denies Letter

CHICAGO, Nov. 17 (AP)—Clark Shaughnessy, football coach at University of Chicago, said today he did not "authorize, write nor sign" any letter to the Spokane, Wash., athletic round table, an organization which awarded Shaughnessy second place in its annual contest for "moaning" gridiron coaches.

"I wish it known I did not authorize, write nor sign any letter to this organization," Shaughnessy said. "I appreciate the humor involved, but I don't like to be the victim of any hoax—not at this time."

Shaughnessy, whose Maroons have lost five games by shutout scores this fall, was placed runner-up by the table's contest to John Law, coach at Sing Sing prison, Ossining, N. Y.

Six R. I. Boxers In Hearst Show

Rhode Island will be well represented in the Hearst All-America second elimination amateur tournament at the Boston Arena Monday night.

To date six of the best "pure" mitt wielders have signified their intentions of competing.

Tony Davis in the 112, Larry Bolvin in 113 and Dominic DeCiantis in the 135, and this year's crop of simon-pure leather tossers from our neighboring state are out to better that record.

Then the New England champions will meet the titleholders of All-America tournaments from New York, Albany, Syracuse and Baltimore at the Garden on Dec. 14 in the Eastern All-America Championships, with those winners selected to represent the East in the National All-America Championships to be held in San Francisco on Jan. 25, 1940.

The Rhode Island entries received yesterday included Paul Verdolotti of Providence, in the 112—Frank Topazio, Bristol, and Frank Lapolla of Providence, in the 126—Nat Cannata, Providence lightweight; Eugene Boulden, Providence, in the 147, and Joe Carbone, Barrington, in the middleweight class.

All-America Entry Blank

The following classes will be contested in tryouts in the American-Record All-America boxing show at Arena, Nov. 13, Nov. 20, Nov. 27, Dec. 4.

112, 118, 126, 135, 147, 160 and 175 pounds and heavyweight

CONN FAVORITE TO WHIP SLUGGING LESNEVICH

PRETTY WORK, DAVIE—Goalie Kerr of the New York Rangers takes a cooling seat on the ice after beating off Chicago Blackhawks' attack during National Hockey League game at Madison Sq. Garden. Thoms (12) and Bentley (14) of the Hawks lead the attack. Hawks won, 3-2, and took league lead.

Hawks Set N. H. L. Pace; Bruins Tie Canadiens

By the Associated Press

Just to prove that all the early season firing is practically meaningless, the Chicago Blackhawks have taken over the lead in the National Hockey League.

No one wants to insinuate the Hawks don't deserve the lead, but the point is that the Hawks a year ago at this time were not only leading the league, and defending the Stanley Cup, but they were undefeated.

Yet they ultimately finished last—the only team in the league that didn't get into the playoffs at the end of the season.

LOSE EARL SEIBERT

The Blackhawks ganged up on the New York Rangers last night for a 3-2 victory, but it was a costly decision which resulted in Earl Seibert, their star defense man, being lost for three weeks or a month because of torn ligaments in his right knee.

For two periods, the game was a scoreless standoff, but the final chapter made up for all the action that was missing before.

Putch Hillier tallied for the Rangers, then Art Wiebe for the Hawks, followed by Alex Shibicky for New York and Phil Hergesheimer for Chicago.

Five minutes before the end of the game, Doug Bentley, freshman in the league, sent home the winning goal and earned the points that put Chicago ahead of Montreal, Toronto and Detroit and into first place in the league standings.

Montreal's Canadiens were tied, 3-3, by the Boston Bruins, thereby losing a chance to hang on to a tie for the lead. The Flying Frenchmen held a 3-1 lead going into the third period, but were overtaken.

BRUINS STILL FIFTH

After a scoreless opening period, Montreal started for its third straight victory with a goal by Lou Trudel from 30 feet away in the second period.

50,000 Gate For '175' Title Scrap

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—Handsome is as handsome does—and in this case "handsome" (in the person of Billy Conn, the Pittsburgh Adonis) should do very well for himself.

For Billy will be an overwhelming favorite as he lays his light heavyweight title on the line tonight against Gus Lesnevich.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP)—Gus Lesnevich of Clifside, N. J., will have a slight advantage in weight when he meets champion Billy Conn of Pittsburgh in a 15-round bout for New York and California's version of the light heavyweight championship. Lesnevich tipped the scales at 174½ pounds today, and Conn weighed in at 171½.

Rugged Clifside (N. J.) scrapper, in a Madison Square Garden show. The fight will be Conn's second defense of the title he won from Melio Zecca last July 13 in the same ring.

In a return engagement with Melio at Forbes Field in Pittsburgh Sept. 25, Billy retained the title with a decision after 15 grueling rounds.

Promoter Mike Jacobs of the 20th Century Sporting Club estimates a sell-out crowd will watch the first Garden fight since old Tony Canzoneri hit the canvas—and the end of his comeback trail—two weeks ago against young Al Nawis. The battle tonight should draw a gate of about $50,000, Jacobs hopes.

Those who "like" Lesnevich are playing what the boys call a hunch. They apparently feel Conn will meet the fate of Henry Armstrong and Fred Apostoli. Both were relieved of their crowns by hard-hitting underdogs.

However, the Conn camp sees at such superstition and points to the popular Pittsburgher's left jab by far his most effective weapon—and the fact that many rate him the best boxer in the business today.

UNDISPUTED CHAMPION

Lesnevich, featuring speed, stamina and a vicious punch, is the New York State Athletic Commission's No. 1 challenger and the guy Conn must bat over before he is recognized as the 175-pound champion by the National Boxing Commission.

The N. B. A. title has been vacant since John Henry Lewis moved off the throne months ago because of impaired vision. The N. B. A. has indicated it will be perfectly willing to declare Lewis undisputed king of the light heavies.

BILL CONN

GUS LESNEVICH

"WATCH OUT FOR THIS"—Bill Conn and Gus Lesnevich warn each other about punching prowess. They meet tonight for world welterweight title at Garden. Conn weighed in at 171½, Lesnevich at 174½. Distance is 15 rounds.

Finland's New Nurmi to Run Here

HELSINKI, Finland, Nov. 17—It was reported here today that Taisto Maki, Finland's present champion long distance runner and a protégé of his world-famed predecessor, Paavo Nurmi, will leave soon for a "propaganda trip" to the United States.

Informed quarters said Maki would make the trip partly on behalf of the Finnish nation and partly in the interests of Finnish athletics.

Maki, who was called up to serve with the Finnish armed forces, has been granted a leave.

But in between Dit Clapper scored once for Boston, and in the third period Bobby Bauer and Art Jackson notched goals that earned the Stanley cup defenders a deadlock.

Nebraska North Goal Inviolable

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 17 (AP)—There's a "No Trespassing" sign on the north goal line at the University of Nebraska football stadium.

Nebraska, defeating three teams at home to date, held all three scoreless and scored five Husker touchdowns at the south goal.

The Huskers are hoping the sign will still be there when the Oklahoma Sooners try to move northward in the game here tomorrow.

G-Men Watch Bookies

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Justice Department, Atty. Gen. Murphy said today, will move quickly against anyone attempting to furnish a hoerserae betting information service in place of the nationwide news service which M. L. Annenberg has agreed to disestablish.

Murphy, asked at his press conference what was to be done about other means of disseminating gambling information, said "I don't know, other than we will take appropriate action, and without delay, to end any effort to establish a substitute, in violation of the law, for that which we have destroyed."

Asked whether the action in the Annenberg case disposed of Pennsylvania's request for the assistance of the Federal Communications Commission in an investigation of telephone wire use to transmit racing information, Murphy said:

"I am not sure this action in the Annenberg case will end all the activities you refer to." Murphy subsequently remarked that the "whole subject is under study here."

Rochester Bookies Plan to Use Radio

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 17 (AP)—Suspension of activities of Seaboard News Service, Inc., today disrupted activities of Rochester horse race bookmakers.

"To tell the truth, we don't know what we are going to do," one operator said.

Telephone service continued as usual yesterday, but all long distance wires into the horse rooms were silent today.

Possibility of utilizing radio was seen by one operator, who said broadcasts from Buffalo or Toronto might be the solution to the dearth of race information.

SHORT-ENDERS FACE BIG DAY

By International News Service

Football now is getting into its traditional phase where setups become upsets with the greatest of ease as past performances, previous form and the dope sheet go out the window.

Tomorrow is the day when many a courageous and chronic short-end better will cash a good bet, and the wary punter will have his eye peeled for false odds.

OKLAHOMA FAVORED

This column is going to pick the following short-enders to upset the favorites: Georgetown over N. Y. U.; Georgia Tech over Alabama; Michigan State over Indiana; Santa Clara over unbeaten U. C. L. A.; Nebraska over Pitt and, yes, Penn State over Army.

It is generally agreed that Tulane will beat Columbia by about 10 to 0, but if we can find anybody who will give us one lone touchdown we'll take a flier on Columbia.

This one will be closer than most persons expect, despite Tulane's overwhelming superiority in manpower.

We are picking Oklahoma to beat Missouri only because we figure the Sooners' pair of smashing ends can and will stop passing Paul Christman.

Notre Dame seems to have a slight edge on Northwestern, and Minnesota's all-around strength should take Iowa. And, while admitting the wizardry of Pappie Zupke, we don't think his Illini have enough to check Ohio State's power.

North Carolina vs. Duke is strictly a guess but we'll take a flier on the former.

Louisiana State should trim Auburn, and we like Kansas State over Iowa State; Denver over Idaho; Colorado Aggies over Utah and Kansas over George Washington. We're going right out on a limb in picking Marquette to upset Texas Tech.

CHICAGO SHOULD WIN

Villanova figures a small margin over Temple and Crain of Texas should get going again against Texas Christian. And, despite the odds, we like Wisconsin to click against Purdue; Washington State against Stanford; and Oregon State against California.

And here's our five-star special (but we wouldn't risk a plugged dime on it): Chicago to find somebody it can beat in little Oberlin.

Brockton Team Three Stops From State Title

SOMERVILLE IS NEXT SHOE CITY CLUB FOE

By MICHAEL GILLOOLY

Thanksgiving Day tune-ups offer the fans a most interesting schoolboy program for the last full Saturday card of the season tomorrow afternoon with three suburban games heading the overflowing list.

Arlington vs. Medford, Malden vs. Everett and Somerville vs. Brockton should provide scholastic followers with plenty of action.

At the Fulton st. grounds, Coach Tom O'Connor's undefeated Mystics will face another stiff test with the invasion by Arlington. Medford slipped by a weak Waltham eleven last week, showing signs of its tough schedule, but still remains a slight favorite to continue its unbeaten record.

Arlington, topped only by Leominster, has come fast in the past two weeks, swamping Waltham and then tipping Somerville. Coach Fred Ostergren has been disappointed in the work of his backfield but thinks that his line, led by Capt. Russ Luser and Ed Tobin, will give the Medford forward wall a stiff testing.

The contest will probably result in a low scoring affair with Medford's backfield holding what margin there may be over the invaders.

The annual Everett-Malden mix-up will probably find Coach Warren McGuirk's club still starving for victory. Everett has beaten or tied its rival for the past four years and appears capable of extending this streak another furlong in this meeting.

Coach Dennie Gildea's boys have been beaten only by Manchester Central this year. After a soft victory over Revere last week, the squad is in top shape for its trip to the Earl St. Stadium. Everett still has a slim chance to slip into the state title if the leaders slip and is more than anxious to jump on the Golden Tornado.

Somerville's journey to Eldon Keith Field in Brockton will probably find Art McManus' outfit returning on the losing end of the score. With only Rogers high of Rhode Island and Waltham remaining after this title, the Shoe City appears set for the state championship.

TWO HURDLES FOR BROCKTON
Brockton's versatility ruined Manchester Central's perfect slate last week as Charlie Holden's boys took a long stride towards the pennant while Somerville was dropping a decision to Arlington. Bernie Lanoue, stepped in New Hampshire last Saturday, will try to regain his touchdown pace in this encounter.

Lawrence, co-leader with Brockton, will probably have little trouble downing St. James of Haverhill in its warm-up for Lowell on Turkey Day. John Callaghy's quarterbacking will probably run up a decisive score.

The North Shore will be in for its usual share of close contests with Rindge Tech clashing with Lynn English; Saugus playing host to Marblehead; Peabody invading Salem; Newburyport traveling to Swampscott and Gloucester facing Winthrop.

Malden Catholic will probably sew up the Catholic League title against St. Charles at Waltham. The Malden Catholic eleven is unbeaten, untied and unscored upon in eight games.

Other outstanding games pit Lexington at Belmont; Beverly at Quincy; Cambridge Latin at Leominster; Lynn Classical at Chelsea; Concord at Winchester; Milton at Dedham; North Quincy at Framingham; Nashua, N. H., at Haverhill; Worcester Trade at Lowell; Watertown at Melrose; Waltham at Newton; Wakefield at Reading and Revere at Woburn.

TODAY A YEAR AGO—Cornell officially rejected invitation to play post season game with Santa Clara in Los Angeles on New Year's Day.

THREE YEARS AGO—Forest "Spec" Towles, University of Georgia's world champion high hurdler, operated on for appendicitis, out of competition for the winter.

Commerce, English, 0-0, At Half Time

NATIONAL LEAGUE FIELD.
Nov. 17—English high school's undefeated forces failed to threaten the Commerce high goal line as the teams battled scorelessly for the first half of the feature contest of the football twin bill here this afternoon.

In the opening stanza, Tom Brennan and Emil Shtogren ran up three first downs to carry to the Commerce 30 but there ran out of down as the Bookkeepers kicked out of danger.

The nightcap found Hyde Park and Rosindale scoreless at the half with play fairly even.

Rutgers Back On Tigers' List

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 17 (AP)—After lapse of one year, Rutgers University's football team will renew the ancient series with Princeton in 1940.

The two institutions which met in 1869 in the first intercollegiate football contest will clash on Oct. 26 at Palmer Stadium, Princeton.

GRANITE BLOCK—Tilio Margarita of Medford rockets straight ahead as he preps his charge for the invasion of Arlington tomorrow. Unbeaten Medford hopes to maintain its record against Fred Ostergren's team, and Margarita, a guard, is one of its best bets to accomplish the feat.

Boston Evening American Photo

THIS IS EASY—But Guard Patsy Darone of Malden won't find it so easy to put reverse body blocks on Everett foes tomorrow when they come to Malden High Stadium. Darone is a member of a very strong line, which meets another great front wall tomorrow.

Vandalism Ends School Football

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 17 (AP)—Southwest High school students celebrated their second consecutive year without a football defeat so boisterously the string of victories will not be continued next fall.

Celebrants smashed store windows, snarled traffic and slugged a policeman.

So the Board of Education decided the school, in Kansas City's most exclusive residential section, cannot have a football team next season.

Police Lieut. Fred Dobbs commented:

"There has been a tendency to be lenient with the boys and girls because they are the children of some of the city's most responsible citizens. But good faith is one thing, and vandalism is another."

Yale Regulars Face Tigers

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 17 (INS)—Yale's starting lineup for Princeton was revealed today by Coach Ducky Pond indicated that the past week's injuries in scrimmages were not as serious as originally believed and that most of the stalwarts will be in action.
